In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

Full marks to our NDP and Liberal dissidents for a gallant and stubborn try. The hardest fight is the foredoomed one, and it was plain from the start that the allegations of highways department misconduct tabled by the Opposition this week were unlikely to go before a judge.

Our minority blocs, solid in demanding a royal commission under a Supreme Court judge, could hope to get their way only by a free vote which might stampede a few broncho members out of the government corral.

This didn't happen. Instead, when the division buzzer summoned the House to a standing ballot on Mr. Strachan's amendment to Attorney-General Bonner's motion, the Sacred ranks were solid from Richter to Campbell, Black to Skillings. So the amendment was lost, the Bonner motion carried, and the charges of chicanery in a government department will be weighed by a committee of the legislature in which government holds an 85 majority.

"We shall probably begin finding the answers on Monday," said Mr. Bonner.

Why . . . ?

I could quote you reams of pro and con argument delivered in masterly fashion through a long Friday afternoon. Whatever these lawmakers may or may not be, even the least is a veteran public speaker.

But I give you a single, bitter question, slammed across the floor by NDP Tony Gargrave:

"Why are you scared of a judge?"

And that, it seems to me, is the question which is going to linger while the public accounts committee enquires into a file of allegations to which both NDPs and Liberals have said they'll add further affidavits.

There are men in our Social Credit government whom I like and admire. But today, reviewing arguments which were mere clever sophistry, I think this government has badly compromised itself by its insistence on keeping the investigation under the family roof.

Thorough Job

Only a speedy, thorough and impartial enquiry will clear the record; which means that the committee must complete its deliberations and return its findings before the current session prorogues.

From its very nature, trial by committee must be suspect as a Russian election. Intemperate terms for this procedure have already been aired. "Kangaroo court" was one which drew government ire on Friday; "Whitewash" another.

If it is not to deserve them, the public accounts committee must not depart by a hair's breadth from Mr. Bonner's promised impartiality.

It seems to me, too, that

Footsoot but triumphant: two casual teenagers strolled into Victoria at 11:25 a.m. today, with 50 miles of up-and-down Malahat behind them. They were welcomed and congratulated outside the Times office by staff members Marge Gilroy, left, and Humphry Davy, centre, who started the "50-20" attempts locally. That's Gary Moseley plus blisters next to Marge, George Wilmhurst and sore legs on the right.

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)

— Every available police car was rushed to the Sydney show ground tonight following an anonymous telephone call that acid would be thrown at the Queen.

The caller told police a man would throw the acid as the Queen entered the show ground in an open-car for a people's rally.

Uniformed and plain-clothes police dashed to the entrance and within minutes had formed a strong guard around the show-ground gates.

The royal car was 10 minutes late, giving police more time to complete their precautions.

A detective said later there were few people about because showers had been falling and they saw no one suspicious "and certainly no acid."

The scare came after the Queen earlier won cheers from some 4,000 persons at a rain-drenched civic welcome when she refused the protection of an umbrella.

27 on Lost Plane; Wreckage Sighted

MANILA (AP) — A Philippine Air Lines plane with 27 persons on board disappeared over Mindanao Island today.

A constabulary detachment on Mindanao reported it had sighted wreckage of a plane on the island's rugged interior, but officials here said they could not confirm it was the same plane.

The constabulary report said that a search party was on the way to the scene, in the Malalag area some 60 miles southwest of Davao City, to "aid survivors if any."

Word from the constabulary came after a six-hour search had failed to turn up any trace of the craft.

A spokesman for the Philippine Airlines, informed of the constabulary report, said he had no confirmation that the plane was the missing airliner, a twin-engined DC-3.

HOW TO FINANCE MODEL POLICE DEPARTMENT

Good Samaritans' Fixed Tickets

BELLMAWR, N.J. (UPI) — A police chief indicted for ticket fixing said today some $2,000 bilked from unsuspecting motorists was used to better our police department and to help destitute families.

Chief Edward J. Garrity of Bellmawr, with 15 years service on the force, 11 of them as chief, said, "none of my men or myself kept any of the money we took. It all went for police equipment or to help people out."

A special grand jury Thursday charged Garrity with 14 counts of changing official records and of conspiracy to obstruct and prevent due administration of state motor vehicle laws.

Three of his men and Bellmawr violations clerk Helen B. Nagles also were indicted.

The indictments charged the men issued motorists tickets for serious offenses, collected the fines, lowered the charges and pocketed the difference in fines called for by the true charges.

"It was just something that happened and then kept going and going," Garrity said. "All the money that was taken was turned back

wasn't put where it was intended in the first place. That's the problem."

He said the ticket fixing had been going on "since about 1959 or so."

In that time, he said, the Bellmawr police department bought a police fingerprint camera, a lie detector, built and equipped a darkroom and bought an oxygen resuscitator and a 10-ton hydraulic jack for getting people out of cars in accidents."

Asked if he had approached the borough, which has 11,835 residents, for added funds, Garrity said: "No I can't say the borough is at fault. They can only supply so much money to us tax-wise with the amount of people we have."

He said that on more than one occasion the ill-gotten money "was used to aid needy families."

Garrity, who is 43 and has one child, runs a police department that has often been cited as a model other small towns could beneficially imitate.

Few small town police departments in the state are so well equipped.

For the highways department, it's a long road that has no squirming.

Do-nuthin' Dief sez he'd never done all kinds o' governin' but parliament wouldn't let 'im. Forgittin', mebbe, that parliament represents Canada?

WIRE BRIEFS

Canadian Ousted

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Canadian identified as John Norton of Westwood of Montreal has been expelled from Russia for illegally taking photographs of trains, the weekly newspaper Nedelya said today.

They started out at 8:45 p.m. Friday, walked steadily through the night and morning, finishing the march at 11:25 a.m. when they often stopped to compare blisters.

They were one of three groups, all teenagers, who tackled the 50-mile challenge overnight.

Gary and George were the first to complete the walk since Times staff members Marge Gilroy and Humphry Davy had failed to turn up any trace of the craft.

A spokesman for the Philippine Airlines, informed of the constabulary report, said he had no confirmation that the plane was the missing airliner.

Also trekking overnight were Ken and Jim Tschirriter, 16 and 15, and Bob Palmer, 16, who were at the Tietis Lake cutoff at noon today; and Dan Parker, 16, Terry Forsyth, 15, Len Philip, 15, and Hans Hansen.

CIA Agent Nabbed

HAVANA (AP) — The newspaper El Mundo claimed today a U.S. Central Intelligence agent was arrested Friday seconds before entering an unnamed embassy with incriminating documents.

First hearing, Mr. Corbett said, will be on Wednesday.

Opposition members tried to find out the answer from Attorney-General Robert Bonner towards the end of the debate Friday afternoon.

Put to Committee

The motion Mr. Bonner won through said: "That the matter be referred to the select standing committee on public accounts and printing."

Gordon Dowding (NDP-Burnaby) tabled the documents, including an affidavit.

Mars-Gazing 'Scope Back

PULASKI, Tenn. (UPI) — Giant tandem balloons, which carried a 36-inch telescope on a Mars-gazing mission 15 miles above the earth, landed along a fence row 10 miles north of here today.

The bridge would be hung between two trees, and would be built at no cost to the city.

Three persons appeared before the council Friday night and volunteered to construct and maintain a 70-foot long suspension bridge from the city park to the library lawn.

It would be four inches wide and narrower in scope than the committee.

Tony Gargrave (NDP-Mackenzie) said that more than one highway project is involved.

Thus the battle lines for the inquiry were laid as the legislature late Friday afternoon referred the case to the House committee on public accounts by a vote of 26 to 18.

The Social Credit government majority overrode the objections of the NDP and Liberals, who fought through four hours of debate for a royal commission under a Supreme Court judge.

"Why are you scared of a judge?" asked Mr. Gargrave.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson maintained that a royal commission would be slower and narrower in scope than the committee.

ROUND-A-ABOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Animal lover Mrs. James Barr, 965 Trans-Canada Highway, sends a clipping from the Canadian-owned newspaper The Scotsman of Edinburgh to combat the statement of a local kennelman that dogs have "no sense of loyalty."

It records that a collie named Glenn has been presented with the Dog's VC by the Dog Aid Society for Scotland.

The dog guarded his dead master's body for nine days, sometimes lying on top of him to protect him from the rain!

Two small girls, under school age, were overheard recently discussing religion in a frank and serious way.

"Does God really have a house up there?" said the tinier of the two as she skipped rope violently, her round blue eyes on the clouds scudding across the sky.

"Guess so," said her companion, as she skipped even more violently.

The tiny one stopped suddenly, skipping rope swinging in fantastical loops around her feet.

"Then how does he keep it up here?"

Question was too deep for the other little girl. She didn't answer . . . just skipped.

Seventy-five-year-old J. W. Morris, 2856 Dufferin, went to the bank Friday morning to cash his own and his wife's old pension cheques.

The cheques, both of which were endorsed, were rolled in an elastic band along with a $20 bill. It was money the couple couldn't afford to lose.

But when he reached the bank on Government St., Mr. Morris discovered he had lost both cheques and the cash.

Worried sick, he re-traced his steps along the street but couldn't find the roll. He reported the loss to police and went home.

He had hardly arrived home when police phoned to say the cheques and bill had been found.

Mrs. W. L. McGill, 1156 May St., saw it lying on the ground on Government St. and turned it over to police.

Said Mr. Morris today:

"I was depending on that money. I'm glad we got it back."

George Patterson, 10459 All Bay Road, had a pleasant surprise waiting for him when he returned recently from Hawaii.

Victoria's weather hasn't been so tropical in past weeks that orchids, native to Hawaii, are blooming but Mr. Patterson's daffodils are.

"My neighbors told me they'd been in bloom for a week or ten days before I got back," he said.

Controversy raging in the women's department as to the birthright of the muffin (English or American—see page 20 today) took a rather startling turn when a correspondent wrote our Penny Saver to give her an old muffin recipe used in Wales.

It read "Crimps or muffins may be made from exactly the same mixture, the method of cooking them is the only difference."

And what a difference! This recipe concluded "muffins need proper muffin rings, grease the rings then place them on a hot greased girdle."

Shades of our grandmother's corsets!

Dr. Frances Oldham Kelsey, formerly of Cobble Hill, has been recommended for a tentative Republican cabinet by Republican Senator Margaret Chase of Maine.

Dr. Kelsey was instrumental in keeping the baby-crippling thalidomide drug off the U.S. market. For this she was awarded the Presidential Medal, the highest U.S. decoration for civilian service.

Senator Chase recommended her as secretary of health, education and welfare for the "next" Republican government.

It seems to us the department of recreation which puts out "Beautiful British Columbia," has shown a lack of imagination in making up the magazine's spring edition.

On the inside of the magazine are some colored photographs of some beautiful native flowers which are uncommon in other parts of the world. But the outside cover depicts Dutch tulips which are not native to the province.

"Vancouver is on the mainland of Canada, but Victoria, where all good tourists go, is on Vancouver Island," writes Times travel writer Horace Sutton in the March issue of McCall's Magazine.

"Victoria is quaint—capital Q. Flowerpots on the lamp posts, four-horse tallyhoes that provide blankets and running commentary . . . Beacon Hill Park, for band concerts under the trees and colors, the ships putting into Victoria harbor with the great snow-capped Olympic Mountains behind them."

Mr. Sutton also recommends a visit to Beacon Hill Park to see "the black trumpeter swans from the royal estate at Windsor," and many other local landmarks.

SEVILLE, Spain (UPI)—The ceiling and wall of an exclusive Roman Catholic grammar school collapsed today on 40 small boys, killing four of them and injuring 25 others.

If the committee has the judicial powers claimed for it by the attorney-general, it should restrain Highways Minister Gagliardi from further television and radio antics.

These may convince Social Credit's more fanatic supporters, but the thinking public will question any such pulpit-thumping tactics . . . especially when the show is heralded by advance billing paid for from Social funds.

Sweets for Sweet

Meanwhile, life in our House goes on. Public Works Minister Chant opens his desk drawer. Among the important-looking papers and folders is a bag of candies.

Presently his jaws are moving rhythmically. So are Education Minister Peterson's, Recreation Minister Westwood's and Minister of Lands and Forests Williston's.

Among our ministers at least, it would seem that sharing the goodies is no idle phrase.

. . . GRAFT PROBE

from contractor Dick Holzworth, saying $135,000 had been paid for work never done, that Mr. Gagliardi had told a contractor to pay off a $6,702 mortgage for a friend in return for future reward, and that the organist in the minister's Kamloops church had been paid $330 a month by the same contractor.

Mr. Gargrave gave the first hint of further information coming.

Terms Too Narrow

He said the public accounts committee terms of reference were too narrow.

"Because I understand citizens elsewhere in the province are coming forward with further material."

Later, he added: "There are additional facts which some people will bring before the committee concerning another project. Furthermore there are additional affidavits which we would like to refer to the committee."

"We also want to discuss the conduct of the minister generally without reference to any particular project."

He asked Mr. Bonner if these affidavits could be brought up there.

There was no reply.

He said Mr. Gagliardi had assured a television audience that there would "not be a whitewash" but he was afraid the terms of the committee were inadequate.

More Affidavits

Mr. Perrault, a few minutes earlier received a package by special delivery. He told the House: "I have been given some affidavits this afternoon."

He said they were related to the motion.

It was later learned copies of the affidavits were also given to Mr. Bonner.

The debate Friday was the most intense of the session, and certainly concerned the biggest issue of the session. But it never became ill-tempered or loud.

Opposition members were all careful not to make any charges themselves against Mr. Gagliardi; all referred to the allegations of the affidavit.

He said the opposition was "passing the buck" to royal commission — a delaying tactic.

The debate began with Mr. Perrault.

He said if the government had nothing to fear, it should be prepared to allow the investigation to be held where it would appear in the best possible light: a royal commission.

"It would be a triumph for this government — a triumph which they do not appear to be seeking."

Wanted Free Vote

He advocated a free vote, and promised his five-man Liberal bloc was free to vote as it pleased. The advice, however, was not heeded.

Mr. Perrault pointed out that the Liberal party had not made any allegations; it had not presented any information. It would, in fact, be the first party to welcome a clean-verdict-for the government.

"Justice must be done and there must be no doubt in anybody's mind that the cause of justice is being served," he said.

There must be no suspicion that the whitewash brush is going to be applied."

Mr. Perrault said he did not believe the committee members were competent to handle the committee would act politically.

Bert Price (SC—Vancouver-Burrard) said he could not believe any member of the committee would act politically.

"Let's take this completely out of the reach of politics," he pleaded.

Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) said no one was suggesting committee members were not impartial; but the public might think so because of their political affiliations.

"We should disqualify ourselves, each and every one, from taking part."

"The shadow falls on every one of us," said Dave Barrett (NDP—Dewdney).

James Rhodes (NDP—Delta) said if the government agreed that the committee was impar-when the tragedy occurred.

Authorities said they believed recent heavy rains which have brought floods to this area may have weakened the building and caused the cave-in.

Firemen rushed to the school and pulled the boys from the debris, while weeping relatives stood by shouting out the names of their children.

"I have seen many catastrophes but nothing in my life has made an impression on me like this one," a fireman said. "The poor children, their weeping families. It was like a nightmare."

Almost every child was hit by flying rocks and debris and many of them were buried.

Three children, aged five and six, were killed instantly and a fourth boy died a few minutes later in hospital.

A police spokesman said none of the other children was seriously hurt.

GAGLARDI POSSIBLE FEDERAL CANDIDATE?

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi has so far not denied a report that he will put up as federal Social Credit candidate for Kamloops in the April 8 election.

National Social Credit leader Robert Thompson, from his home town of Red Deer, Alta., said Friday that Mr. Gagliardi would be a "very welcome member" of his federal team, adding that the decision would have to be made by the minister at the nominating convention in Kamloops tonight.

At Kamloops, T. J. O'Neill, president of the federal Social Credit constituency, said he was "as much in the dark as anyone" concerning Mr. Gagliardi's plans.

He said the public accounts committee terms of reference were too narrow.

"Because I understand citizens elsewhere in the province are coming forward with further material."

The question is merely this: what is the proper procedure?

A royal commission might only delay the opportunity for the minister of Highways to have "his day in court" — a committee was the most expeditious way of handling the matter.

Mr. Gagliardi had the right to answer the allegations as soon as possible — that's all we ask.

Prefer a Judge

Mr. Peterson said anyone accused who really had something to hide would prefer to go before a judge.

Mr. Dowling complained that committee members are "all amateurs" (Only Trial Sacred Donald Brothers is a lawyer).

"If you say they're not qualified to judge you're saying they would subordinate their own principles of integrity and honesty for political gain," Mr. Peterson replied.

Any member of the opposition could summon a witness to the committee, while under the Public Inquiry Act (through which a royal commission would be appointed only a judge could call one).

"Procedures under a royal commission are more restrictive in the matter of getting evidence than are the procedures of this House," he declared.

He said the opposition was "passing the buck" to royal commission — a delaying tactic.

The debate began with Mr. Perrault.

He said if the government had nothing to fear, it should be prepared to allow the investigation to be held where it would appear in the best possible light: a royal commission.

"It would be a triumph for this government — a triumph which they do not appear to be seeking."

Press Statements

"There have been a number of statements filed in the press outside which will be of interest to the committee when it sits."

He said he did not question the competency of a royal commission but the House should look after its own institution.

Had the matter been referred to the committee last Tuesday when he first suggested it we might already have received answers."

Mr. Bonner said he had learned the individual involved (presumably Holzworth) had such great respect for courts — because there have been so few instances of bias."

In answer to a question from Mr. Price, Mr. Dowling said he is not representing Mr. Holzworth in B.C.

Dr. Patrick McGeer (L—Vancouver Point Grey) said the honor of all MLAs was involved: the legislature was supposed to be influenced by public opinion and he read three editorials, including Thursday's Times editorial, calling for a royal commission.

No Wish to Sit

Randolph Harding (NDP—Saskatoon) said he did not want to sit on the committee for such an inquiry. (However he later told newsmen he would)

"Let's take this completely out of the reach of politics," he pleaded.

Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) said no one was suggesting committee members were not impartial; but the public might think so because of their political affiliations.

"We should disqualify ourselves, each and every one, from taking part."

TV APPEARANCES 'INSULT'

Perrault Accuses Gaglardi of Contempt

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi was accused of contempt of the legislature on Friday.

The charge was made by Liberal leader Ray Perrault. He said Mr. Gaglardi had been defending himself against allegations of graft on television programs.

He also said Social Credit funds were used to advertise Mr. Gaglardi's appearance on television news.

Mr. Perrault said that the highways minister apparently was more interested in defending himself on television and radio than before a judicial commission.

"There has been an insult to the legislature," Mr. Perrault said.

He read a commercial spot announcement which he said had appeared on lower mainland radio stations Thursday.

PREJUDGED

"Watch CBC television news on Channel 2 at 6:45 tonight when Highways Minister Gaglardi will answer smear charges of graft."

These were purchased by the Social Credit education fund to prejudice the matter before the legislature could be given an opportunity to consider the pros and cons," Mr. Perrault said.

"There must be no repetition of an investigation that presented to the House without interpretation — dispersions and reasonably.

"Now when the motion is before this House (for a committee inquiry) government members, aided and abetted by Social Credit funds, are going on before every television camera explaining.

"I suggest this is contempt of the legislature of the worst possible kind."

Mr. Perrault said that on the basis of past experience the government should hold a free and public hearing on the allegations.

"There must be no repetition of an investigation that is too limited and too late," Mr. Perrault said.

The government should be the very first to suggest a judicial — the fullest — inquiry.

"A great deal of taxpayers' money is involved."

A judicial inquiry would be above suspicion; it would involve people experienced in handling legal matters.

"Nothing less should satisfy the people of B.C."

Mr. Perrault said witnesses summoned to a legislative assembly committee might have "a fear of intimidation" — not only from government MLAs but from the opposition, too.

Mr. Perrault said there is only one lawyer on the committee — and he is a government member. (Donald Brothers of Trail).

NOT OBJECTIVE

"This is not a proper forum."

"This committee — I'm talking about a committee of which I am a member — cannot be objective."

"Unless it was completely unanimous it would simply not allay a lingering public suspicion that perhaps justice had not been done."

Mr. Perrault said the committee might sit after the end of the session, but what then, would happen to its report. "This inquiry may end up inconclusively. A shadow of doubt may hang over the minister of highways or other persons."

It was "absolutely ridiculous" that a royal commission could not hear the case.

"I do not believe a group of well-intentioned laymen is really capable of dealing with the serious allegations contained in this affidavit. There must be no suspicion that the whitewash brush is going to be applied."

Past experience should have taught the government a lesson, Mr. Perrault said.

'Leap-Frogging' Campaign By Caouette in Quebec

By FRANCOISE COTE

MONTRÉAL (CP) — Real

Caouette, volatile deputy leader of the Social Credit party, has introduced his own brand of perpetual motion into the campaign for the April 8, federal election.

Every Latin-American country but Uruguay has been represented in the schools of subversion during the last year, he told the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee. More were brought in this year to receive indoctrination and training in Communist tactics of revolt, he said.

The Central Intelligence Agency head said the greatest number of graduates, some 200, came from Venezuela. But, he said, Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt appears able to control subversive forces and become "the first freely elected Venezuela's president in history to complete his term."

McCONE gives evidence

EMOTIONAL ADDRESS

Gaglardi on Air To Deny Charges

KAMLOOPS (CP) — An emotional B.C. minister of highways spoke to his Kamloops constituents in an off-the-cuff television and radio broadcast Friday night, claiming blanket innocence of graft charges laid this week against his department.

At the same time, Phil Gaglardi said "hundreds of people" would be out of jobs and "money would stop flowing into this province," if a Socialist government was ever elected in B.C.

Mr. Gaglardi's broadcast over CFJC radio and CFCR television in Kamloops began at 11:15 p.m. and finished 30 minutes later. He was alone on the program.

Answering charges made in an affidavit filed in the legislature Tuesday that the government had paid out more than $135,000 in graft in connection with a highway contract, Mr. Gaglardi said the contract had been checked by six engineers of the federal and provincial governments.

"How could I corrupt all those engineers?" he asked.

Mr. Gaglardi said the affidavit's signee Dick Holzworth of Helena, Mont., had been in the office of the attorney-general in January and if he had documents to file, they should have been presented then, rather than being given later to the opposition.

The minister, also a pastor at a Kamloops church, said he deplored the fact his church was continually being mixed by others with his political life.

PERSONAL TOUCH

"I don't know of any individual that has been submitted to the abuse I have," Mr. Gaglardi said.

"By the grace of God I've always tried to uphold my oath of office."

"Until I became minister of highways I had never been before a court of law. I was taught honesty and integrity by my parents."

Emphasizing that his position as highways minister is far removed from the mechanics of letting highways contracts, Mr. Gaglardi said $804,000 representing hundreds of contracts had been spent in the last 10 years and he had never had a member of his department bring a contract to him and ask that it be paid.

He was trembling and spoke with great drama near the end of his address saying: "People have said that if they can get Mr. Gaglardi they can get the government."

"I've always been a fighter and will continue to do so."

Processions Banned

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters) — City officials Friday issued a two-month ban on demonstrations, processions and gatherings of more than five persons after police opened fire on 7,000 milling mill workers in the industrial area of Karachi. Official sources said four persons were killed and six injured in the shooting and six official sources placed the death toll at seven.

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters) — A border treaty was signed in Peking today between Pakistan and Communist China, following the Karakoram range watershed and giving Pakistan control of 750 square miles of territory now in Chinese possession, it was announced here.

The treaty marks the border of China's Sinkiang province and the part of Kashmir controlled by Pakistan.

China and Pakistan reached "agreement in principle" on the border last December, on the eve of the opening discussions between India and Pakistan on their long-standing dispute over Kashmir.

SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 1963

To Carry the Standard

MR. DAVID GROOS, THE VICTORIAN who campaigned so well in the Esquimalt-Saanich federal constituency, has received the city Liberal nomination.

His close-running rival, Mr. Foster Isherwood, whose candidacy last June this newspaper could not support, has expressed his disappointment by announcing that he would run as an independent.

This is a remarkable about-face by a man who moved, after the ballot choosing Mr. Groos, that the vote be made unanimous and was seconded in that motion from the platform by the other aspirant, Mr. Jack Mears. Mr. Mears, incidentally, says he is quite satisfied with the way the nomination was conducted.

The confusing aftermath of Thursday night's meeting indicates something less than unanimity, but it clears the air. The Liberals who gave Mr. Groos a close but definite lead on the first nominating ballot are no longer encumbered by Mr. Isherwood.

It is unfortunate that the results of the vote were not announced immediately following the count. That would have added strength to Mr. Isherwood's platform call for unity and placed in proper perspective his later decision to bolt, announced after the meeting was over.

Mr. Isherwood is now at liberty to follow the course open to any qualified citizen who wants to seek election. He has severed allegiance

'Internal Financing'

MISTER BENNETT SAYS there will be successive cuts in power rates for the people of this province—to the extent of $5 millions a year for ten years. However, according to the news item from Chilliwack, this apparently is a prediction, not a promise.

Only a few days ago, in another speech in Toronto, Mr. Bennett told an audience that about half of the Peace River power financing will be generated internally by the B.C. Hydro Authority. Removal of $5 millions a year from Hydro revenues through rate cuts would apparently decrease by this amount the sums available for Peace power development. But there are two factors involved.

In the first place, the total rate cut of $50 millions over the coming decade would be a relatively small item in a Peace project running into hundreds of millions. It would be a minor item in the borrowings that will be necessary. In the second place, with consumption of electric power increasing in British Columbia each year, it could well be that this increase will provide all or a large part of the $5 millions which Mr. Bennett proposes to deduct annually from our light bills.

In any case it is apparent that the substantial benefits which we were led to expect from the government take-over of the B.C. Electric are not going to be returned to us through significant cuts in power charges, even though this is the chief reason why a government would nationalize a utility. The consumers are going to take second place after the demands of Mr. Bennett's do-or-die Peace River power scheme.

British Columbia power users thus are financing half of this expensive project themselves, without the option of buying bonds and receiving interest—a forced loan if ever there was one.

They All Want the College

IT IS UNFORTUNATE BUT NOT surprising that towns in the Okanagan should now be vying with one another either for location of a two-year junior college for the whole area or for colleges of their own.

This is a situation to which Victoria is no stranger in the history of higher education in British Columbia. Many years ago, when it was deemed desirable to establish a provincial university, outside experts were called in to examine the situation and to give their advice. The consensus of the experts was that Point Grey offered the most satisfactory location for a university at that time and for some years in the future.

Victoria's disappointment was natural. The capital had strong arguments in favor of placing the university here.

On the basis of accessibility to the bulk of students seeking courses beyond high school, coupled with its amenities as a site, the Point Grey choice seems to have been justified.

Furthermore, in the course of natural growth, Victoria has now achieved the position where it supports a full university.

There appears to be no reason why a similar development should

Pitching a Rainbow Curve

MR. CYRIL SHELFORD'S wind-up was energetic and impressive. The pitch, when it was delivered, floated along in a gentle lob.

His ultimatum to the provincial government or the oil companies to do something about undue variations in gasoline prices throughout British Columbia—or he would—expired Thursday. So he did something. He filed notice of motion asking the government "to give consideration to the appointment of a royal commission to study all phases of petroleum marketing practices in the province and to make recommendations thereon."

This is scarcely what the public had expected. Mr. Shelford does

Nature Rambles

BY FREEMAN KING

A HIKE around the trails at Francis Park off Mung Road, can prove interesting, now that spring is coming.

In sheltered spots the Easter Lily (Erythronium) is in bloom, and the little Yellow Violet shyly peeks from behind its leaves.

The sealed stumps are worth going to see. These old stumps have continued to grow since they were cut many years ago; they are fed by the roots being intermingled with the roots of living trees close to them.

On the ground, the field Chickweed with its sharp pointed leaves, and white and green flowers is showing.

As you wander along the trails the rocky knolls are covered with many types of mosses and among them you can find the leaves of flowering plants just waiting for the warm sunshine.

On some of the old Garry Oaks the mosses and Polypody ferns make a pleasant sight against the sky.

See some of the old nurse logs, count the many species of plant life to be found growing on them.

Look in the swamp areas and see how the Skunk cabbage has sent its leaves up through the mud and water. Soon the golden sheath of the flower will appear, and so brighten an otherwise drab appearance.

The Oregon grape blossoms are showing and soon the yellow will stand out against the reddish-green of the holly-like leaves.

The Indian plum is in bloom with its white drooping clusters. This shrub blossoms before the leaves take full shape.

The Maple buds are beginning to break and the Spirea or Ocean Spray buds are showing tight against the twigs.

On your way around the trails listen and you will hear the call of the ravens, perhaps scolding or welcoming you to one of nature's beauty spots.

FROM OTTAWA

Night of the Long Knives—Most of Them Made of Rubber

THE national election campaign will be essentially an effort by the Liberal Party to keep the voters' eyes on the real issue of April 8 and the Diefenbaker government's effort to escape it. That issue, of course, is whether Canada, in its present state of mind, is capable of establishing a government or whether it must reel on indefinitely, ungoverned for all practical purposes.

As indicated by Mr. Pearson's opening speeches, the Liberal Party's case is simple: It alone has any chance of winning a parliamentary majority and forming a government able to govern. The only alternative is a Parliament of minorities and months or years of continued chaos in the public business.

After its palace revolt on the Night of the Long Rubber Knives, when 11 cabinet ministers threatened to resign and only six retired in the end, the government cannot argue, and in private does not pretend, that it can come near a majority in the next Parliament. Its only hope is a stalemate in which it could make a deal of some sort with the Social Credit splinter, but not under Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership.

Unless he wins a clear majority—a miracle beyond belief—Mr. Diefenbaker's political career will end a few weeks from now.

The end began not, as most people think, with the defeat of his government in the House of Commons but in the Cuban crisis last autumn. His inability to make up his mind on the American quarantine of Cuba and his refusal to alert Canadian defence forces at once, opened fatal fissures in the cabinet.

It was then that a group of ministers became convinced that he must go if the government was to have any chance of survival.

After that the seed of division grew fast as the Cuban crisis was followed by a crisis of domestic politics.

The long feud between Mr. Green and Mr. Harkness on the issue of nuclear weapons reached its climax on Sunday, February 3, when the defence minister presented his resignation and demanded that Mr. Diefenbaker resign also as a national duty.

Since 10 ministers were prepared to quit with Mr. Harkness, the prime minister agreed, after a moment of stunned silence, to place his own resignation in the hands of the Governor-General immediately but as he rose to leave the cabinet chamber five ministers, led by Messrs. Green and Churchill, said they would leave also and smash the Conservative Party beyond repair.

That was the Night of the Long Knives but most of them were made of rubber.

On the following Monday only Mr. Harkness resigned. Apparently the government, though shaken, was still intact as it faced a non-confidence vote next day. In fact, however, it was already dissolving.

On Tuesday a last desperate attempt was made to save the government by sacrificing its leader. Messengers from the rebellious ministers assured the Social Credit and New Democratic Parties that if they would oppose the no-confidence motion in Parliament Mr. Diefenbaker would resign within 48 hours. The splinter parties would not accept the guarantee and the no-confidence motion was carried that night.

The cabinet was called to meet early Wednesday and the Conservative caucus was to consider the party's position later in the morning. Overnight Mr. Diefenbaker reversed this arrangement for tactical reasons. By meeting the caucus first and rallying its support, he hoped to tame his dissident ministers before they met their colleagues. So it turned out.

The caucus, stirred by the oratory of Senators Brookes and O'Leary, resolved to sink or swim together. The dissident ministers were persuaded not to resign. But the thin sticking plaster applied to the cracks broke before the week was out. Mr. Hees and Mr. Seigny resigned on the following Saturday. After a holiday on skis, Mr. Hees explained that Mr. Diefenbaker had made him certain promises of reform at the caucus meeting but had failed to implement them, but this version is flatly denied by the prime minister's friends. Mr. Diefenbaker, they say, made no promises to Mr. Hees.

The first result of the great putsch was to separate six ministers from the cabinet, three by outright resignation, three more—Messrs. Fulton, Fleming and Halpenny—by retirement from federal politics.

The second result was to leave in the cabinet several ministers who favored and worked hard for Mr. Diefenbaker's retirement, had intended themselves to resign but were dissuaded at the 11th hour. These are dubious lieutenants in a battle line but Mr. Diefenbaker accepts even if he can never forgive them.

Hence a government which lost the confidence of the voters last June, of Parliament last month, and of about its own members, now asks for a new vote of confidence from the people of Canada. It hopes they will trust it more than it trusts itself but those hopes are not high. Though half the cabinet knives in this long suicide were made of rubber, their wounds seem to have been fatal.

QUIET has been restored to the ancient City of London.

The tight little square mile has returned to its customary duties of governing the financial destinies of the world—or at least the sterling area.

No longer are the major streets of central London closed to traffic, creating rush-hour chaos. No longer do rerouted taxi drivers swear at the fair name of Canada.

For Mr. Diefenbaker is home again. His visit was an enjoyable one, not only for himself, but for others who get their special thrill from basking in the glow of British ceremonial at its glittering best.

On Monday morning Mr. Diefenbaker drove to the Guildhall, top-hatted in an open coach with Mrs. Diefenbaker (who was fur hatted), attended by horsemen and footmen (both top-hatted) and flanked by Mounties (Boy Scout hatted) who were flown over for the occasion.

THE ART OF THE CHINESE

IN CASE you are ever in any danger of being over-impressed by the claims of old Oxonians for the stature of their Alma Mater as the sole repository of all earthly wisdom, I want you to remember two statements of outstanding imbecility which I associate with a university which, in the main, I hold very dear. The first gem was passed on to me by Cyril Bailey, and it concerns one of his contemporaries as an undergraduate who later became the Director of the Bank of England. This young hopeful was sent up to Oxford by his father, an old Balliol man, with this marvellous advice: "Make no friends—and form no opinions!"

The other item for your crammed sottisier was made to me by a don who has now attained to some eminence in the university suburb of the city made famous by Lord Nuffield.

I had dared to express my admiration for Chinese art and thought, and he crushed me with: "I have always held that an interest in things Chinese was the hallmark of a 'second-class mind'."

He went on to discuss at some length a subject to which he was passionately devoted, namely himself, while I was left marvelling at the obtuseness in some respects, of an otherwise intelligent man.

It is not, indeed, easy to resist the immediate appeal of Chinese ceramics and sculpture: I can only assume that those who are able to do so manage to perform this difficult trick with some assistance from Nature in the shape of certain mental and physical deficiencies. They must not only be color-blind, but also form-blind, an affliction which is the visual equivalent of being "tone-deaf."

There is no other way to explain how anyone could remain unmoved by that mastery of the Chinese potter which results in something more difficult to achieve than the "mere" marriage of shape and color, or a fitting together of form and function; in the art of their greatest masters there is a harmonious blend of color, shape and texture that comes nearer to achieving classical perfection than anything the Greeks ever did.

Are you afflicted in this way? You can easily find out by paying a visit to the Art Gallery while the epoch-making exhibition of Chinese Art is on display.

This wonderful collection, reflects at every turn the exquisite sensibility of a people whose aesthetic judgment hardly ever seems to make a mistake: it makes the creations of even the most talented Westerners look like the clumsy work of men wearing boxing gloves.

But do not despair. They cannot have been born with this sense of aesthetic rightness" in their artistic decisions. It must have been the result of education.

By imitating the best part of that education, we too could cultivate the latent sensibility that is every human being's birthright. In fact, I think a noble start was being made in that direction in our schools when some enthusiasts crying "Frills! Frills!" started a panic move in the opposite direction.

But even in those schools where the arts were being taken seriously by teachers well qualified to arouse and direct the more life-enhancing interests, there was one glaring double-headed sin of omission and commission which made their work unnecessarily difficult. I refer to that epitome of the anti-art tendencies of modern Philistia, which is the Maclean system of handwriting.

Young Chinese and Japanese children have the inestimable advantage of being taught how to write with a brush, and in learning to write they also learn the basic language of art. As if that were not enough, their "characters" are beautiful things in themselves, and a page of them is a sight to gladden the eye even of one who has not the slightest idea what any of them means.

No Oriental can emerge from formal education, as we call it; without an everyday experience of what line, and form and tone actually mean. Of course some will have more idea than others;

Gerald Waring ... REPORTING

OTTAWA — The last starter in the election race is John Diefenbaker, and he obviously expects to win. Why else would he spot his rivals a week or two in the marathon that runs until April 8?

Confidence of victory is part of the technique of winning both races and elections. But there's more to the strategy than that. In any race, nobody wants to "peak" before the finish, and then fade in the home stretch. So the later the start, the less chance of a premature peak—and conversely, the greater the chance of not having enough time to overtake the early starters.

But for Diefenbaker, five weeks of intensive campaigning, something new almost every day to make headlines, sounds like good strategy. Some of his opponents' criticisms are unanswerable—he can't deny the Bonfires have no warheads, or that a dollar crisis followed his assurances last spring that all was well with the country.

But he can try diversionary tactics: charges that Lester Pearson is soft on the U.S., that the Liberals obstructed Parliament and denied him freedom of speech in the Commons. He can indulge in jingoistic "pro-Canadianism." He can bear down on his "five-year plan," wooing votes with promises of what his government would do if it only had a majority that the Grits could not obstruct.

Liberal leader Pearson is using different strategy. He's running on the theory, which has a lot of political history, to support it, that the voters don't elect governments; they defeat governments. This is logically means that if he wins, it will be more because the people dislike Diefenbaker than because they like Pearson.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Acromegaly

Acromegaly is the disease which has produced many a circus giant. What happened to such a person was that, early in life a tiny tumor—called an adenoma—started growing in the little pituitary gland, which lies at the base of the brain and above the nasal cavity. Apparently such adenomas produce too large an amount of the growth hormone."

When one of these little tumors develops, usually the man's lower jaw enlarges; also his hands, his feet, his face, and his nose grows too big; and sometimes he gets a rauous voice. Fairly often he gets diabetes, and he loses his sexual drive. A young woman may have menstrual disorders, or she may perspire too much. In most cases, after a while the little adenoma stops growing, and then the acromegaly remains stationary for life. Sometimes, when the unfortunate person is a woman, she is anything but happy about her homeliness.

In these cases, when the doctor has an X-ray film made of the person's head, he will usually find the "sella turcica," or Turkish saddle—the little depression in the floor of the skull which contains the pituitary gland will be much enlarged. Occasionally, when the little tumor keeps growing, it so presses on the optic nerves as to cause blindness in the outer halves of both fields of vision. It can also cause severe headaches.

Years ago, brain surgeons used to go in and perform the very difficult operation of taking out the diseased pituitary gland. Then my friend, Dr. John Lawrence Director of the Donner Laboratory at the University of California, discovered that he could shrink up the pituitary gland by sending through the skull a powerful beam from the 184-inch cyclotron. This type of beam is five times more destructive of tissue than are X-rays. Helpful also in many cases can be the rays that are given off by radio-active cobalt.

Every so often, when a middle-aged-or elderly person's chest is X-rayed, perhaps during a routine examination, a wound shadow called a coin-lesion is seen on the film (a lesion is a bit of diseased tissue). For a while, lung surgeons felt that every lesion of this type should be removed. They thought that even if the nodule was a metastasis—a daughter-growth from a cancer somewhere else in the body—its removal would cause the person to live longer.

Also, if the nodule should happen to be full of tubercle bacilli, it would be well to remove it.

Lately, the enthusiasm for removing these lesions seems to have diminished. I have just read "The San Francisco Report" on coin-lesions, and I find that of 400 patients with these round shadows in the lungs, seen at the Letterman Army Hospital in San Francisco, 52 were operated on. The incidence of cancer among these 52 patients was only 15.4 per cent.

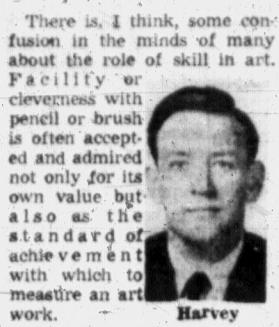

The experts now report that today, with much experience, if five out of six X-ray specialists agree that a patient's coin-lesion does not look cancerous, the patient had better not be operated on. Perhaps it is well not to operate even if four out of six agree that the nodule is not cancerous.

If I, personally, had a nodule in my lung which I thought was cancerous, and which almost certainly was a daughter-growth from cancer elsewhere, I would not care much to have it removed. I think I would refuse operation.

ART IN REVIEW

It's the Trade, Not the Tricks That Matter

There is, I think, some confusion in the minds of many about the role of skill in art. Facility or cleverness with pencil or brush is often accepted and admired not only for its own value but also as the standard of achievement with which to measure an art work.

It is easy, perhaps, to see why such a yardstick may be adopted, since in much painting of the past technical virtuosity has been a powerfully motivating force and is more obviously manifest to the eye of a layman in a representational work.

The graphic arts of today abound with illustrations which show remarkable technical accomplishment, and serve to preserve the idea that the apparent verisimilitude of some Renaissance painters is still breathing heartily on the cover of Saturday Evening Post.

For years the academic system of art training pursued, until recently, a policy of rigid discipline upon accepted lines, with little concern for ought else than a hand-and-eye co-ordination guaranteed to provide expected or predictable "art" products.

Bookshops have always had a copious stock of "how to do it" books on art; the I-wish-I-could-draw sort of thing which more often than not demonstrates the reason for the author's painting title.

Magazines have invariably had their margins mottled with ads for correspondence courses in commercial and fine art which will make you a sure top-dollar earner. I know people who say they still receive paper and formulae for faces 10 years after they have had their money back.

Skills to the artist are what

Faced with most modern painting in which the skills of representation and draughtsmanship are not apparent, the viewer often concludes that the artist obviously can't draw for toffee.

Whatever the manifold reasons are for this misconception, the plain fact is that skill is not the be-all-and-end-all; it is but a servant—a tool.

Where facility dominates over image or expression, the work ceases to be art and becomes but a meaningless series of gymnastics in the medium chosen.

There are many painters of the past, endowed with tremendous ability to handle their materials, who have come precious close to slickness and even stepped over into tawdry showmanship.

Some of the work of Hals, Boucher, and say, Ingres, is of little significance because of their technical power.

Skills to the artist are what transport is to all of us—a means of getting somewhere. An artist has something to say and the skills at his disposal must be equal to the task.

There can be no fixed proportion of competence to imagery; what works for Grandma Moses would have been insufficient for Michelangelo.

The fact that Picasso could recognize Le Dorian Roussea as a fellow artist, shows how wide a discrepancy of training and years of manipulatory obedience is permissible in the final assessment of great art.

This is in no way an apology for modern artists, who for the most part are every bit as able in the technical department as their predecessors.

What you say and how you say it are inextricably woven in the fabric of art. If it is just words that are wanted, there is always the telephone directory.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

"Live" is going to be the word for theatre in Victoria if all the current plans tell. (Pun purely accidental).

This city may, in fact, become known widely as the finest theatre town in Western Canada. As the ball bounces at the moment, all phases of theatrical activity will be given a chance of parallel development.

Experimental and classical theatre is to find a favorable climate in the university's Gordon Head campus project inspired by Carl Haze.

Restoration of the Pantages Theatre will provide a welcome and to all insights and purposes an ideal civic centre for stimulating local activity in the operatic and conventional theatre idiom.

Through the foreshadowed development of Bastion Square, still further encouragement is likely to be given to many other phases of dramatic activity.

And there is the summer theatre, conceived as a basis for an arts-festival. More concerning this anon. Sufficient to say at the moment, that steady progress is being made and that the problem of location has been more than satisfactorily solved.

All this action will, of course, stimulate certain reac-

Moving Toward An Ideal Destiny

It is progress of a kind that can only match nature's beauty with man's; it foretells a development that is unlikely to disturb the noted Victorian serenity of atmosphere, for such an atmosphere is most complimentary to the arts in all their phases.

It is progress toward fulfillment of an ideal destiny for this city that has been apparent to many who have visited it in the past decade or so.

Speaking of theatre reminds me that a quietly significant event is about to take place for the 23rd annual occasion.

Refer to the Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival which will occupy the entire week of March 11 to 16, with matines on Wednesday, March 13.

Many a youngster has discovered a talent which he has subsequently put to good use through the focused theatre activity that this festival represents.

But apart from this consideration there is the undoubted fact that poise, confidence and other social attributes are encouraged through drama activity, to say nothing of imagination and aesthetic sensibilities.

The Schools Drama Festival has been successful in sustaining and, in fact, building standards through 22 years. Artistic and relatively brilliant productions have not been uncommon in any year.

Indeed, the standards frequently achieved might well be envied by adult groups; on top of which there is that additional charm which the vitality and directness of youth alone can lend.

As a recitalist he is equally successful, his personal charm evoking a strong communication between himself and his audience.

For his Victoria appearance he has chosen a distinguished program.

Schubert and Brahms' lieder, several arias — including the widely popular Le Reve from "Manon" — art songs by Rachmaninoff and Copland, and a Poema in five parts by Joaquin Turina, will give ample artistry for the famed Valtetti artistry.

Director is Roland Goodchild, an actor-playwright who, this winter, has been giving night school instruction in dramatic writing and production.

Three performances will be given, March 7, 8 and 9 with curtain at 8:15.

The cast, headed by H. E. Lekin in the leading role of shopkeeper Désiré Heiss, includes Len Allen, Belle Davies, Margery Bridgeman, Evanne Murray, Betty Jean-Pierre, Bill James, Alec Hutchins and Dave Shearer.

AUTOMATIC CAMERA

The Eastman Kodak Co. has introduced a new fully automatic 8-mm movie camera with battery-powered motor drive and a drop-in user-loaded cassette.

The unique drop-in cassette accepts 8-mm roll film and a special sensing device on the cassette automatically shuts off the camera after the first side of film is exposed. To expose the second side, the user merely turns over the cassette and resumes shooting.

Several cassettes may be pre-loaded for continuous film of sports or other fast action events.

RUSSIAN CONDUCTOR FOR CITY SYMPHONY

A guest conductor from Soviet Russia takes the podium at the March 10-11 pair of Victoria Symphony concerts.

Yuri Lutis will be paying his second visit to Canada but his first to the west coast. For the Victoria concerts he has chosen an exciting program. Major work will be Beethoven's 7th Symphony.

Excerpts from the "Gayne" Ballet Suite by Katchaturian and the Overture to "Taras Bulba" are also included.

Operatic Star Valtetti Has Many Rare Qualities

Italian tenor Cesare Valtetti, due to be heard in recital at the Royal Theatre next Wednesday is something of a phenomenon in the history of vocal art.

He is, to begin with, a tenor. This in itself makes him only comparatively rare, there having been numerous fine Italian operatic tenors since the golden age of opera-dawned.

But by no means all have been also worthy of the title "artist."

Valtetti—in the opinion of the late Olin Downes, was no mere vocal virtuoso but a true musician, having "beautiful style", "flexibility and fine taste."

Leading critics in all countries have used superlatives to describe his style, elegance and the silvery beauty of his bel canto tone.

Good looks, a warm personality and keen intelligence are the qualities that combine with his natural vocal gifts to make him unique.

UNSURPASSED

At the Metropolitan Opera, his performance of the role of Almaviva in "The Barber of Seville" is considered to be unsurpassed in the entire history of opera on the American stage.

Valtetti has sung operatic roles on most of the great stages and many of the smaller ones around the world. One of his famous performances was as Des Grieux opposite Victoria de Los Angeles in "Manon"; another, Alfredo opposite Maria Callas in "La Traviata" at Covent Garden.

Still another, Don Ottavio in "Don Giovanni" which he has sung at Salzburg as well as at other major centres.

As a recitalist he is equally successful, his personal charm evoking a strong communication between himself and his audience.

For his Victoria appearance he has chosen a distinguished program.

VALLETTI AS "ALMAVIVA"

Prolific Composer Conquers Stroke

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Composing with one hand is only a minor hazard for Ferde Grofe, hard at work on another of his famous suites despite a stroke that paralyzed his right side.

The 71-year-old composer is on schedule with his New York World Fair Suite, commissioned by the fair president, Robert Moses. Losing the use of his right hand hasn't stopped the flow of music that Grofe has provided in 56 prolific years.

"I am getting more use out of my right hand all the time," he said, moving the fingers slightly. "In another few months I'll be normal again. Then I'll have to learn to play the piano with two hands all over again. I wonder how I'll be."

Grofe wrote the first few letters, then his fingers wouldn't move. He couldn't speak, and his wife steered him out of the piano and took him to the world fair commission.

He and his wife had dinner one night and stopped by a hotel in Santa Monica for a nightcap. He struck up a conversation with a man who asked for an autograph for his daughter.

Grofe wrote the first few letters, then his fingers wouldn't move. He couldn't speak, and his wife steered him out of the piano and took him to the world fair commission.

The composer spent two weeks on his back with his right hand and leg useless. Gradually he began to recover. "With the aid of a therapist he has learned to walk up and down stairs. But the most crucial test is for him to compose again.

"It was very difficult at first," he recalled. "I am right-handed, and learning to write notes with my left hand was difficult. It took me hours to do what used to take minutes. But I am getting better. I am almost through with the first movement of the suite, which is based on the theme of the fair, world peace."

The composition of a suite is old stuff to him by now. In the last 30 years he has written more suites than he can remember.

NAMED SOME

He rattled off a few of them: "Broadway at Night," "Mississippi," "Hollywood," "Knute Rockne," "Aviation," "Wheels," "Death Valley" for California's centennial, "San Francisco," "Niagara," and his most famous, "The Grand Canyon."

He credits Paul Whiteman with his start. Grofe was born in New York City but came to Los Angeles at six months. He began playing in bands at 15 and says he played piano in cafes and bawdy houses all over the west.

He worked for the Whitehead organization for 12 years, his most notable achievement being orchestration of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

"It was Whiteman who convinced me to try some serious composing of my own," he said. "He told me: 'You've been writing for everyone else; why don't you write for yourself?'

Grofe took the hint and has been pouring out music ever since.

SYMPHONY-OPERA CENTRE

Big Green Light for Arts In Canada's Largest City

By DENIS O'BRIEN

MONTREAL (UPI)—When the Bolshoi Ballet comes to town the best Montreal has to offer is the Forum, a hocky stadium which looks more like a railway station than the Bolshoi Theatre the Russians left behind in Moscow.

The Montreal symphony orchestra languishes in a dilapidated school auditorium in the city east end. Touring orchestra rarely come to Canada's largest city.

But that will all change next Sept. 21, when the city's new combined opera house-concert hall is formally opened with an international festival.

La Grande Salle, scheduled to be completed in early August, will be the main structure of a multi-unit center for the performing arts. Its planners claim that La Grande Salle, the opera house-concert hall, will be one of the world's finest concert halls.

The most difficult task facing the architects in designing a hall suitable for both opera and symphony has been achieved in La Grande Salle by using three balconies and "continental" style seating. This enabled the architects to achieve "the strong sense of intimacy" needed, considered vital for opera and ballet.

from an artistic standpoint," he said after a recent tour of La Grande Salle.

The stage, almost as big as the Plateau Hall, home of the Montreal Symphony, can accommodate the most elaborate of productions. Within minutes it can be transformed into an orchestra shell. The opera house becomes a symphony hall. The stage area is 8,525 square feet.

La Grande Salle, scheduled to be completed in early August, will be the main structure of a multi-unit center for the performing arts. Its planners claim that La Grande Salle, the opera house-concert hall, will be one of the world's finest concert halls.

It is hoped that the entire project will be completed in time for the national centenary in 1967, when Montreal will host the world's fair and international exhibition.

The Place des Arts project was planned in 1956 when the Sir George Etienne Cartier foundation was set up as the governing body. Estimated cost is $20 million. So far $8 million has been raised in grants from the Quebec provincial government, the city of Montreal and private subscriptions.

Louis A. LaPointe, a prominent Montreal industrialist, is president of the foundation and Claude Robillard, managing director. Robillard also is planning director for the city of Montreal.

ANSWERS COMPLAINT

Although the centre has been generously subsidized by the two levels of government, Place des Arts will remain a private corporation.

The Place des Arts is being developed to answer the complaints of cultural groups over the years—that rentals are too high and theatre facilities too poor for the presentation of good theatre and music," Robillard explained. "The world's finest facilities are to be offered and they will be adaptable to every type of stage production."

Besides La Grande Salle, the first phase includes underground parking for 800 cars.

The magnificent concert hall—opera house will dominate the entire centre with an imposing, horseshoe-shaped columned facade. It will have a seating capacity for 3,000 persons.

"It's a most magnificent achievement," said Sir David Webster, director of London's Covent Garden.

"I was bowled over by it... and it is frightfully well done."

"Just say yes" or "no," replied the panhandler

Critics Hit Kennedy's Tax Reform

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP) — A new call by President Kennedy for prompt tax cuts overshadowed other events touching the U.S. business world this week.

The alternative may be a fifth postwar recession, the president told a symposium on economic growth. He indicated willingness, if necessary, to sacrifice at least some tax reform objectives to achieve the tax reduction goal.

Kennedy made it plain he wasn't talking about token cuts.

"If we are going to err," he said, "I would certainly err on the side of a large enough cut, not to go through this laborious, painful procedure ... and then bring forth a mouse."

Meantime, the "laborious, painful" aspects grew steadily more evident as critics hit the administration program from several directions.

CALLED INADEQUATE

The AFL-CIO executive council called the presidential prescription for a "first-step" 1963 reduction of $3,000,000,000 "altogether inadequate." Other entities found fault with Kennedy tax reform proposals involving treatment of corporate profit sharing plans, executive stock options and personal exemptions.

(Off) Capitol Hill, most developments reflecting on the state of the economy were on the plus side.

Steel production gained for a fourth consecutive week, retail sales outstripped year-ago levels a fourth week running and January construction contracts awards were reported up five per cent from 1962.

Automobile sales for the middle third of February were strong, second only to 1955's peak for the period. Reversing a two-month decline, manufacturer's new orders rose two per cent, durable goods were up four per cent, non-durable goods were up four per cent to an all-time high.

The labor department reported the consumers' price index edged up 0.2 to 106 per cent of the 1957-59 average, owing largely to higher prices for fresh fruit and vegetables.

There were some "minuses," too.

The commerce department said spendable income of factory workers backed off in January from December's record high, mainly because of a decline in average hours worked to 40.1 from 40.5 a week.

The stock market skidded lower, making February the first month of price decline since September. Railroad car-loadings slumped some more and were down 5.8 per cent for the first eight weeks of the year from the like 1962 period.

Canadian Imports Blamed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — United States lumber sales have been slowed by competition from Canadian imports and non-wood building products. Western Pine Association officials said Friday.

W. E. Griffie of Portland declared Canadian imports jumped from 3,700,000,000 board feet in 1959 to 4,600,000,000 board feet last year. Lumber from Canada now accounts for 15 per cent of entire U.S. demand, said Griffie, the association's secretary-manager.

J. B. Edens of Phoenix, Ariz., association president, said U.S. lumbermen who discount the effect of Canadian imports are shortsighted.

Canadian lumber may not compete directly if some local markets, but it actually has the effect of depressing prices in all markets, Edens said.

N. B. Giustina of Eugene, Ore., president of the national Lumber Manufacturers Association, said Canadian producers were enjoying unprecedented prosperity in the American market at little cost to themselves.

Work Stoppages Heavier In '62

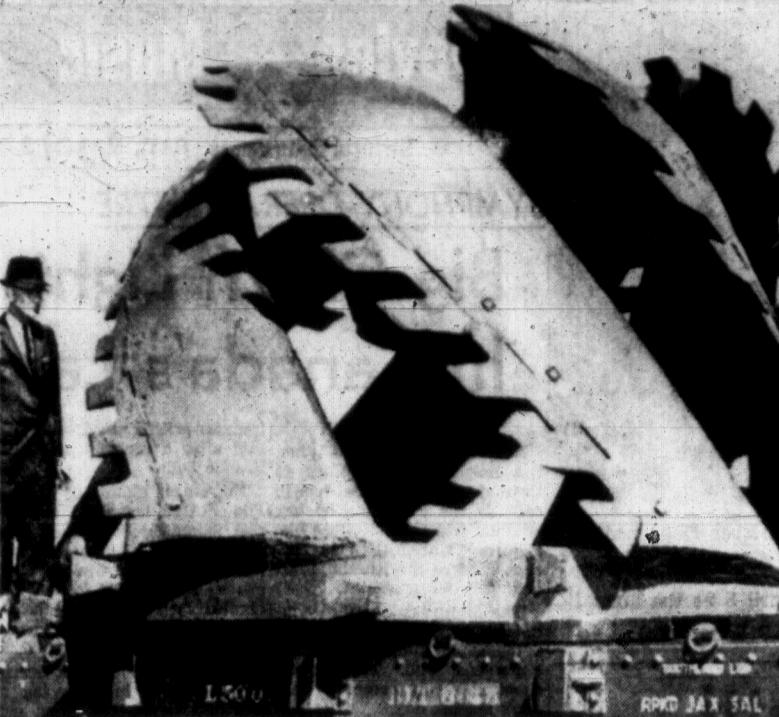

OTTAWA (CP) — There were more work stoppages in Canada last year than in 1961, and more man-days were lost, but fewer workers were involved, the labor department reported Thursday.

In a report of 1962 work stoppages, the department reported a total of 312 compared with 287 in 1961. The number of man-days lost last year was 1,417,620 compared with 1,335,080 in 1961. However, the 1962 figure represented 0.10 per cent of the estimated working time compared with 0.11 per cent in 1961.

Work stoppages last year involved 74,346 workers. The figure for 1961 was 97,939.

Price Jump Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited has announced price increases ranging from $3.60-$8. per ton for various grades of kraft pulp sold in steel to prevent a shortage in the United States.

Uncertainty About Grandduc

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

A new wildcat well in the Beaver River-Kotaneele area just across the B.C. boundary in the Yukon, is about to get underway, according to Calgaryst reports.

Canada Southern Petroleum Ltd. is said to have scheduled the location four miles southeast of its apparently not very successful wildcat which is reported to be standing with a string of intermediate casing set.

This would place the new Canada Southern location 10 miles northeast of the Pan American Petroleum Ltd. Beaver River 73K wildcat in B.C. that made a major natural gas discovery in the middle Devonian and reputedly gave this province one of the largest known gas wells in the world.

The Pan Am well found an almost 1,200-foot gross pay section of carbonate porosity and the Canada Southern wildcats are an attempt to find an extension of the Beaver River reef.

The new wildcat will be on a permit which is part of the rights included in a 1,244,000-acre farmout made to Home Oil by Canada Southern and then farmed out by Home to Pan Am.

According to the report from Calgary, the drilling contract is to be let within a few days and equipment and crew moved in within two weeks.

IF SHE-WANTED

'Her Legs
Those Of Champ'

MERIBEL, France (Reuters) — French film actress Brigitte Bardot could become a top skier because she has "the legs of a champion."

The assessment was given Friday by Emile Allais, twice world ski champion.

Allais has been watching the French film actress working on the slopes under the guidance of an instructor during her three-week holiday here.

Allais said "she is very talented. Classical dancing has given her excellent legs, the legs of a champion if she wanted."

Bardot displays "attributes".

EDUCATION WEEK PROGRAM

Parents to Observe
Schools in Action

Parents next week will have an opportunity to see what students are doing for themselves in more than 40 Greater Victoria schools.

The schools are throwing their doors open for inspection as part of the district observation of Education Week, which starts Sunday.

"Education weeks will provide an opportunity for all to go back to school and to see for themselves what is being done in the present-day system to keep abreast of the changing times," said a Greater Victoria School Board official.

The following schools will hold "open house" receptions:

Monday: Gordon Head Junior High School, 7:30-9 p.m.; Lansdowne Junior High School, 7:30-10 p.m.

Tuesday: Central Junior High School, 7:30-10 p.m.; Oak Bay Junior High School, 1:30-3:30 p.m.; Beacon Hill, 1:30-3 p.m.

Wednesday: Mount View High School, 1:30-3:15 p.m.; Colquitz Junior High School, 1:15-4 p.m.; Esquimalt Junior High School, 9:15-11:45 a.m.; Burnside, 1:30-3 p.m.; Cedar Hill, 10:45 a.m.-noon; Craigflower, 1:15-3 p.m.; Frank Hobbs, 1:15-3 p.m.; George Jay, 1:3 p.m.; Glenard and Gordon Head Elementary, 1:30-3 p.m.; Hampton, 7:30-9:30 p.m.; Lake Hill, 1:30-3 p.m.; Lampson Street, 9:30-11:30 a.m.; McKenzie Avenue, 7:30-9:30 p.m.; Marigold, 1:30-3 p.m.; Oaklands, Richmond, and Sir James Douglas, 2:30 p.m.; South Park, 1:15-2:30 p.m.; Strawberry Vale, 9:30-11:30 a.m.; Tillicum, 1:30-2:30 p.m.; Tolmie, 10:30-noon; Uplands, 1:30-4 p.m.; Victoria West, 10-11:30 a.m.; View Royal, 2-3 p.m.; Willows, 1:15-3:30 p.m.

Thursday: Oak Bay Senior High School, 1:20-3:30 p.m.; Margaret Jenkins, 9:15-11:45 a.m.; Monterey, 2:30 p.m.; Sheshaeboone, 10:45 a.m.-noon.

Open House will be held at James Bay Elementary School between 7:30 and 9 p.m., March 11, and at North Ward and Quadra Primary between 7 and 8:30 p.m., March 12.

Unlike metal alloys, which stop projectiles by being dense enough to absorb their high-speed energy, the new plastic plays tricks on the bullets. It lets them "penetrate" slightly, then twists them sideways so they break into small pieces snugly packed within the armor panel.

This happens even when the bullet is fired head-on.

Inventor Harry King, a materials engineer at Aero-General Corporation, says the armor is now being tested at the army's Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds and that many of the details are secret.

"We can say that the plastic armor is approximately 40 per cent lighter than the conventional armor it would take to stop a given projectile," King disclosed.

"The speed of a bullet traveling 3,000 feet per second drops to zero after traveling half an inch through the armor."

Bus Crash Kills 64

GUATEMALA (AP) — An overcrowded bus speeded to a fair turned over and burned Thursday, killing 64 persons including 16 children, police said. The driver, who was seriously hurt, was accused of drunken driving and speeding.

STUDENTS EXCEL

High Standard Set at Concert

By Audrey St. D. Johnson

An exceptional standard, both in selection and performance marked "Song of Summer," presented Friday night and to be repeated tonight by students of Victoria High School.

Choruses, vocal solos, instrumental and orchestral numbers and a delightful dance sequence comprised the program which was set in the period of Elizabethan England.

As was to be expected, considering the theme, the overall tone was lyrical rather than dramatic, warm, romantic and elegant.

Solos and small ensemble numbers made up the first half of the program which was introduced in a Prologue by Timothy Vernon.

PLEASING

Thoroughly pleasing young vocalists, graduates of '61 and '62, making guest appearances, were Roy Silver, Rino Elverhoi, Nancy Jones, Judy Roberts, Judi Porter and William Hosie.

A small ensemble singing Gibbons' "The Cryes of London," Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary" played by Bernice Crowther, Bill Morgan and Berk Maddaford, a recorder trio consisting of Terry Poisson, Jennifer Self and Suzanne Derricks, a string quartet, Ron Milton, Helen Kelley, Linda Wedman and Merlin Nadurak lent additional distinction to Part I.

The orchestra, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Evans, was well controlled in its role of accompanist and was delightful to listen to when in the solo spot.

DANCE MUSIC

Mendelssohn's music was used principally for "Dances of a Midsummer Eve," the feature of Part II.

Choreographed by Wynne Shaw and featuring accomplished soloist Sandra Begg as Pick, this provided a graceful, atmospheric interlude that concluded with a colorful pageant of the court nobles, led by Dave Bowering and Synovne Peterson.

The concept and direction by Norma Douglas was effective and picturesque. Chorus numbers directed by her were charming in texture and blend despite an occasional faltering of pitch.

Boy Kills Father

BEAVER, Pa. (AP) — The 18-year-old son of a police chief admitted Friday he killed his father after taking "as much as he could from him." District Attorney Richard Steward reported. Steward said Walter Hlista Jr. admitted he also shot his 15-year-old brother, Ronald, because the younger boy discovered what had happened.

OPEN LETTER

From D. H. Lawson and N. R. Morrison

To The Motoring Public Of Victoria!

Victoria, B.C.
March 1, 1963

Because of our policy of bringing to Victorians quality products at the lowest possible prices, we no longer feel that we can ask our loyal customers to purchase Petroleum Products at our Service Stations at higher prices than are currently asked in similar-brand Stations.

It is with much regret that we find it necessary to accept a Consignment Stock of gasoline. Up to this point we have avoided participation in the wild price fluctuation in the hope that some stable price would be found. Although we are not personally in favor of the consignment method, we can see no satisfactory alternative.

Therefore, effective Friday, March 1st, we have reluctantly accepted consignment, for whatever time is necessary.

THE FACTS ABOUT

ESSO PRODUCT PRICES

IN BRITISH COLUMBIA—

Imperial Oil makes an average profit of less than $\frac{3}{4}$ of a cent per gallon on Esso products refined and sold in

British Columbia

Imperial Oil's logo refinery near Vancouver serves most of the province. Over this whole area, the company's return on investment in the refinery, distribution plants, service stations and related facilities was 4 per cent in 1962. This is a mighty low return by any recognized business standard.

ERNE 'JUST TOO GOOD'

Baldwin Picks Richardsons to Win Fourth Title

By MATT BALDWIN
(Three-Time Canadian Champion)

One way or another, it is my intention to be on the scene when the first man wins the Brier four times.

Naturally, I had hoped to be the first into that charmed circle after I had drawn alongside of Ken Watson with my third victory in 1956 at Victoria.

But failing that, I will be at Brandon next week, in the role of a spectator, because I don't see how they are going to be able to gun down big Ernie Richardson in his current assault on No. 4.

He is just too good, or his rink's just too good . . . probably a combination of both.

The housebuilding contractor from Regina showed me in the Masters Carspiel at Calgary that he is still keen on savoring that sweet taste of victory. You know, all too often a guy unconsciously slips from his peak in any line of sport after a succession of triumphs.

It's harder to get up for the games you have to win. But there's another side to this business of winning everything in sight, too. Pressure can keep building up as people expect you to keep on winning, and that can be a formidable enemy, too.

ERNE RICHARDSON

But Ernie appears to be blissfully indifferent to both of those potential pitfalls. He's got all the shots, continues to execute them with the most remarkable consistency . . . especially the big ones.

And what a rink he has in front of him! Cousin Arnold at third rock and brother Sam at second, as they've been ever since the Richardson family first loomed on the horizon in 1959 at Quebec City. And now at lead, Mel Perry, succeeding a cousin, Wes Richardson, who has been laid low by miseries of the back. I'll tell you this . . . the acquisition of young Perry certainly has not weakened the team.

Of course, there are a few fellows who aim to make the Richardsons stub their toes.

In Alberta's behalf, I am delighted that the powerful Calgary foursome skipped by that little tiger, Jimmy Shields, emerged from my province. It gives his part of the country tremendous representation. Shields has been building this team for three years, was just a whisker away from Hector Gervais last year, and now seems about to reap the harvest of his careful preparations.

Another stout contender has to be Doug Cameron's great young team from Prince Edward Island. You know,

MATT BALDWIN

I sort of had them tabbed to win it all last year, but for the first time in a stretch of five seasons, they failed to leave the Spud Island. But they made it out this time, and you can tab this rink off its best form to give the champs all they care to handle.

Three other skips have reached the Dominion finals before, and you can therefore figure on them improving off their previous efforts. They are Glen Harper from Duncan, Ian Baird who carries Nova Scotia's banner, and Don Mix, in again from the Beaver club of Moncton, N.B.

Elsewhere, it seems to be the year for question marks and possible surprises. How good, for instance, are Ontario's two reps . . . Robert Mann of Hanover and Doug Gathercole of Copper Cliff? They've never been this far before, but both have emerged from tough territory whose color-bearers have been there or thereabouts, as they say at the race track.

And I'll be watching the progress of the Hersh Lerner's Manitoba quartet. It is the first time that the Maple Leaf Club has ever sent out a representative from the Brier-winningsest province of all . . . and you can bet that they are keyed up to disprove my prediction of a fourth tankard for the Richardsons.

Hubsters Provide First-Day Thrills

ISLAND HOOP SCORES

Taking No Chances

It has been almost around-the-clock shuttling in annual B.C. open badminton tournaments at Racquet Club after tourney drew record list of entries. Some weary competitors were still banging birds at 3 this morning and matches resumed at 9. Vancouver swingers Frances Leddy (left) and Frances Hardon weren't taking any chances of dropping off to sleep as they rested between matches. They brought along an alarm clock.

NANAIMO — Favored teams were casting a wary eye in the direction of Nanaimo Hubsters this morning as play continued in the annual Vancouver Island senior boys' high school basketball championship tournament.

Big guns in the Island's prep cage circles moved ahead as expected in Friday's opening-round games but it was the host Hubsters who stirred up most of the thrills for noisy fans—in the Nanaimo Senior High School gymnasium.

Hubsters, showing flashes of brilliant play that could spell trouble for their more vaunted rivals, marched into the semifinals with a spine-tingling 44-44 victory over Qualicum Trojans.

Also displaying a tendency for periods of inaccurate shooting, Hubsters jumped into a 9-0 lead in the opening two minutes but were trailing by four points early in the third quarter.

HIT HOT STREAK

Then they hit one of their hot streaks, firing 13 straight points to grab a 33-26 advantage. Hubsters were in front the rest of the way, but it was too close for comfort for their supporters in the closing stages.

Four times Trojans climbed within one point in the final three minutes and one more mistake might have sent the Hubsters tumbling to defeat.

Victory sent Nanaimo into one half of today's semifinals. Favored Alberni Chieftains tangled with Victoria High Totems in the other second-round tussle.

CHIEFTAINS SHARP

Action in the final round starts at 5:30, with the championship game carded for 9:15. The first three finishers will earn places in the B.C. tourney at Vancouver.

Totems, provincial champions last year, appeared below their best form but they still had too much poise for Chieftains and toppled the Timermen 45-34 after taking a 23-lead at the half.

Chieftains were the most impressive of the favored squads in Friday's clashes: They almost overwhelmed Belmont Braves with fine ball control and sharp shooting in the opening exchanges. Chiefs vaulted into a 20-9 lead and were able to set their own pace the rest of the way.

TROPHY CANDIDATE

Marvin Johnson, a six-forward who looked like a candidate for the Times Trophy, which goes to the tourney's most valuable player, paced the Chiefs with 15 points. Paul Drummond topped Belmont snipers with 17 and teammate John Allen connected for 10.

Totems, runners-up to Chiefs in the north-south tourney last weekend, had some trouble solving a zone defense thrown up by Cowichan Thunderbirds. They appeared fortunate to be ahead 15-14 after the first quarter and could only manage a 21-19 advantage at the half.

But the Courtenay cagers started rolling in the third quarter, outscoring their rivals 18-5, and chalked up a 50-45 triumph.

LYTLE RINK UPSET

Young City Rink Offers New Trend

It's a colorful fashion show, but if you'd care to look beyond the knits and the millinery, the annual Victoria ladies' curling bonspiel may be embarking on another trend.

It is a trend that has been created by neither Marc Bohan nor Oleg Cassini but, instead, by a quartet of city business girls.

They're an age when years are not a secret and they may be starting a youth movement in distaff bonspiel ranks.

Two early losses Friday eliminated Judy Leibel's team from main event consideration but don't overlook the possibility of the Victoria quartet hitting the silverware in other events.

YOUNGEST RINK

The youngest rink in the Victoria Curling Club's play appears to be as capable as the most experienced. They showed it despite losing a 10-6 decision to Vancouver's Helen Knowles, a well-played first-round match.

Judy and twin-sister Marie, who plays second, are both 18. Vice-skip Carol Carpenter is 20 and Barb Beddington is 24.

The young ladies have played in Victoria's bonspiel before, but never as a unit.

SIXTEEN UNBEATEN

Upset of Friday's play was the fall of Vancouver's Lytle. Lytle. Last year's main event winner, Mrs. Lytle dropped a 9-8 match to Isobel Martin, also of Vancouver.

Sixteen of the starting field of 48 rinks were unbeaten heading into today's rounds. As well, play in the 'B' event progressed into the eighties.

The bonspiel winds up Sunday.

Friday's results:

OWEN SAYS NEW STRIKE ZONE . . .

Even as Holdout, Mets' Marv Is Marvellous

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Marvelous Marv Throneberry has one foot in New York Mets' spring training camp.

Someone keeps stepping on it.

It's been that way ever since Throneberry decided to hold out for more money, about $2,000 over a $15,000 offer for the 1963 National League season. He has been talking with chief contract negotiator Johnny Murphy, as sistant to Mets' president George Weiss.

Marv figures he's worth something to the Mets — despite the fact there are five other first basemen on the club — as a drawing card. Not many players can get picked off, turn a triple into an out by failing to touch first base and commit numerous other errors as consistently.

Throneberry hit .244 for the Mets, pulling his lifetime average to .238.

"I tell them people come to the park to holler at me just like Marv and Maris," Throneberry said. "I tell Murphy I drew people to the games and he tells me 'you drove some away, too.'

"I tell him I took a lot of abuse and he says, 'you brought most of it on yourself.'

"I tell him I played in the most games of my career. And Murphy says, 'but you didn't play well in all of them.'

"Well, they throw things at Marv, too. But he catches most of them."

Is this a gag with Throneberry? Not so, says he.

Mets, the two $100,000 outfielders in the game today, will be among those hurt, he predicts.

Owen wrote his thoughts about the new strike zone, running from the top of the shoulders to the knees instead of the armpits to the top of the knees, in his own magazine. He publishes it at the baseball school for youngsters he runs at Mil.

"The rule change amounts to about 10 inches," Owen said.

"This 10 inches will be vital to the careers of several present-day stars and some of them will be finished. Other men will become stars next season that were just average players.

In addition to Marv and Mays, he listed these hitting stars among those who will be hurt by the new high strike:

Roger Maris, Al Kaline, Norm Cash, Willie Kirkland, Woody Held, Harmon Killebrew, Leon Wagner, Orlando Cepeda, Elston Howard, Tommy Davis, Frank Robinson and Ernie Banks.

"There are many active players 35 and older, who will be driven from the majors because, as a player gets older, the high fastball gets harder and harder to get around on," Owen said.

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy—A brilliant Donald McPherson retained the men's world figure skating championship for Canada and it would appear the women's crown will again rest in Holland.

A spectacular come-from-behind performance that surprised even McPherson won the world's title today for the 17-year-old Ontario high school student.

McPherson overcame a fourth-place finish in the compulsory figures by superb free skating and pushed ahead of two favored Europeans to retain the title for Canada.

"My win came as a complete surprise," Don told reporters. "I never thought I could pull myself up to the top of the list this year."

The men's title was won last year by Don Jackson of Oshawa, who has since turned professional. At that time, McPherson finished in fourth place, although he was second only to Jackson in free skating.

AIMS FOR OLYMPICS

"My next goal is the Olympics," McPherson said. "But I have no intention of turning professional after that. I do not want to make skating my life."

The six compulsory school figures preceded the start of the free skating Friday and McPherson found himself in fourth place, trailing Manfred Schnellendorfer of West Germany, Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia and European champion Alain Calmat of France.

But McPherson turned in a startling free-skating performance marred only by a fall on a triple jump.

Calmat, who finished just behind McPherson over-all, 2,214.1 points to the champion's 2,219.8—also fell while attempting a triple loop. Schnellendorfer, third with 2,203.9 points, went down twice.

Divin was fourth with 2,173 points. He was the only one of the four who did not fall but his program lacked variety.

FINISHES EIGHTH

In teeing up the ball: 1. Find a level spot on the tee. Avoid uphill, downhill or sidehill spots.

CORRECT TEE-UP

2. Tee up your ball at a spot that will have you shooting away from the principal trouble you face. If you have an out-of-bounds on the left, tee your ball up at the extreme left side so you can shoot out to the right. This will help minimize the out-of-bounds danger on the left.

3. Finally, always tee your ball up at the same height. If you play much golf, you should have a grooved-swing. And by varying the height of the feed-up ball, you're making it tough for your grooved swing to bring the clubface into the ball at the same point each time.

Meanwhile, defending-champion Skoukje Dijkstra of Holland virtually clinched her second women's title today, taking a massive lead in the school compulsory figures. She built up a total of 1,272.8 points in the six figures, which were completed today. She also had a perfect ordinal score of nine—indicating she was the unanimous first-place choice of all nine judges.

The pair's title went to West Germany's Marika Killius and Hans-Juergen Baumer Thursday night. This was won in 1962 by the brother-sister team of Otto and Maria Jelinek of Canada.

Birds Card 'Pin' Races

Victoria Sno-Birds have scheduled "pin" races this weekend at their skiing layout at Green Mountain.

Club reports indicate there to six inches of new snow on a base of about one foot. Good skiing on corn snow is predicted in the "north bowl" and "bunny bowl."

The road to the club's parking lot is open, the snowmobile will not be running but three tows will be in operation.

HARPER GOES UP

Terry Harper of Hull-Ottawa Canadians of the Eastern Professional Hockey League has been called up to take Johnson's rearguard spot in tonight's game against Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings took steps to straighten out a defensive problem of their own by ending their "indefinite" suspension of Howie Young, the NHL's penalty leader, already benched for three games by the league for a run-in with referee Frank Udvari, sat out two more for missing a practice and violating training rules.

Detroit lost four of the five games he missed.

The fifth-place New York Rangers—still with a mathematical chance of easing the Wings out of fourth spot—met the Leafs in Toronto tonight.

'Let Them Pay With Own Money'

CARMAN, Man. (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson said Friday night foreign exchange difficulties are preventing Canada from selling more products abroad.

Speaking to a rally here he said "mere sales promotion is not enough."

Japan and Brazil are buying wheat from the Soviet Union instead of Canada because of "foreign exchange scarcity."

The obvious answer to the problem is to allow countries that "wish to" buy Canadian wheat and other products to pay for them in their own currencies."

"This policy also will provide us with funds which we can use for investment and development of these countries which is our moral obligation at this time."

WOULD RECRUIT CABINET

Earlier in the day, at a Winnipeg press conference, the Social Credit leader said he would if necessary reach into other parties or even outside Parliament for cabinet material if elected a minority prime minister.

While the last Diefenbaker government "was one of the most 'inadequate' Canada ever had, he said a minority government can be made to work and there were many men in the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties who could serve in a Social Credit government."

Mr. Thompson indicated he would be in favor of defensive nuclear weapons for Canada in case of need and if this policy was recommended by a non-

Husband Jailed For Acid Killing Of Model Wife

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—A superior court jury of 10 men and two women Friday night sentenced Dr. Geza Dekaplan to life imprisonment for the acid torture murder of his bride.

The only alternative for the jury had been to sentence Dekaplan to death in the gas chamber.

Under California law Dekaplan will become eligible for parole in seven years.

Dekaplan's murder wife was a 25-year-old blonde model.

FEE BOOST BY HOSPITALS PROPOSED

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Don Andrews, chairman of Kamloops Royal Inland Hospital, suggests that hospitals increase their dollar-a-day charge to patients to offset financial losses.

He said the B.C. Hospital Association executive is "feeling out" hospital boards throughout the province to get their opinions on the suggestion.

Andrews told the Royal Inland directors Thursday night:

"It's only a suggestion and our executive would like to know what hospitals think about the idea."

Douglas Accuses Liberals Of 'Big-Boss Philosophy'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Don Douglas, chairman of Kamloops Royal Inland Hospital, suggests that hospitals increase their dollar-a-day charge to patients to offset financial losses.

He said the economy needs, instead, a "massive injection" of government spending on new roads, schools and "several millions of new houses for low-income groups" to provide new purchasing power that will spur production.

Mr. Douglas referred to the most recent instance—Ford of Canada's announcement it will transfer a parts and accessories operation out of Windsor.

"Only a New Democratic Party government would have the courage to say to the Ford Motor Company: You have wounded Windsor enough and you shall not move."

ATLANTA (UPI)—Street barriers erected last December in an effort to prevent racial block busting were torn down by the city Friday night on court orders.

$22,000 TO HOSPITAL

A $22,000 cheque from the estate of the late Mayo Singh has been presented by the family to Lieutenant-Colonel W. J. Mosedale, chairman of the board of management of St. Joseph's Hospital.

The endowment will be used by the hospital for equipment and to perpetuate the benefactor.

Mayo Singh, a lumberman, made similar bequests to hospitals at Duncan, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Paldi, India, and the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

The administrator, Sister Maryann Celeste said "St. Joseph's Hospital is deeply grateful for this wonderful remembrance of a benefactor whose gifts to the hospital in his lifetime were numberless."

Imperial Oil Donates $15,000 To YM-YWCA Building Campaign

A gift of $15,000 by Imperial Oil Ltd. to the Victoria YM-YWCA building campaign was announced in Toronto Friday. The gift was confirmed to a Victoria canvassing team in Toronto by Imperial Oil's vice-president Trevor Moore who said "we have studied this project and believe it is worthy of support."

Campaign chairman Hugh Stephen said "we were delighted with the cordial reception accorded us by Mr. Moore and the Imperial Oil Company."

"They had a good understanding of our campaign and set an example which we hope other firms may emulate."

The Victoria canvassing team of Mr. Stephen, Stuart Keate and Donald J. Lawson had completed more than 20 calls on national corporations by Friday and were reported "greatly encouraged" by their reception. Among those visited were former Victorians Alton Lambert, John Proctor and E. T. Simon.

From Toronto, the canvassing team moves on next week to Montreal and Winnipeg for calls on banks, railroad companies, large industries, and national foundations.

"Everywhere we go, we find a wide degree of support for the Y," Mr. Stephen said. "Many of the biggest businessmen in Canada today got their start in the Y and this has resulted in a genuine bond of sympathy with our project."

Arthur Mayse

A while ago I fell into discussion with a good, solid socialist-British Labor variety-about the short work-week which he feels is inevitable, now that the machines are doing most of our labor and half our thinking.

How I wanted to know, are we going handle all that leisure time?

No problem there, said my friend. Help the wife. Do all those neglected fix-it chores around the place. Go bowling, go fishing.

Fine! But a man may not want to go fishing that often. His wife mightn't appreciate him underfoot during her own non-union workday, and we're not all eager or handy home artisans. What about that residue of unexpected leisure?

"It'll give him a chance to develop some culture," was the answer. "You know . . . books, music, basket-weaving. Stuff like that."

Well, even though I haven't woven a basket since Grade Three, I have no quarrel with culture, although I'd appreciate a definition of this slippery intangible.

But as a man who once suffered from over-much leisure, let me assure you that the average Joe with time on his hands isn't going to occupy it with books, music, household chores, sports, good works for charity, or even basket-weaving.

What he's going to do with a considerable proportion of his free hours is hang around the house, harry the children, brood himself neurotic, and put on weight. Then, when the burden of leisure becomes insupportable, he'll yield to a primal instinct and hunt work for hands and brain. I mean, pay-work, with a regular cheque to keep him reassured that it's honest-to-goodness homely, necessary labor.

The upshot of the much-disussed 29-hour work week—and I suggest any union officer reading this take note—will be the darnedest wave of moonlighting this country has ever seen.

ARCHER INVITES OPINIONS

Anyone with anything to say to George Archer, the man who is conducting an investigation into all aspects of Victoria's policing should step right up and say it.

That was the word today from Mr. Archer himself.

He said it "does not appear to be generally known that any citizen or group may approach him in connection with his probe of police affairs."

The former RCMP superintendent, who reorganized the Vancouver police force after it was rocked by scandal, said he will welcome any communications about his work.

Mr. Archer said that representations may be made to him either in person or in writing.

He can be contacted either by writing to Room 310, B.C. Hydro Building, 780 Blanshard Street, or by telephoning EV 3-4141, Local 210 or 209.

Mr. Archer said he will arrange an appointment for anyone who wants to see him.

He said he already has received many communications.

VMD Low On Bids For Ferries

Tenders were submitted by VMD, Carrow Ltd. and Yarrows plant company, Burd Dry Dock Ltd., North Vancouver.

Leisure is wonderful. I'm all for it, in moderation. One of life's hardest-to-learn lessons, though, is that leisure can only be appreciated and enjoyed when it comes to us as a contrast to hard, steady and disciplined work.

This is a comfortless preachment, much less palatable than the South Seas dream of playtime unlimited that captivates the fancy so easily.

But I doubt increasingly that life dumped us here to have fun—and what a childlike expression that is on the lips of an adult—or even to make the pursuit of happiness our main goal.

Happiness, like true culture, is another of those intangibles. There's no certain way of achieving it; but I've noted that it seems to come oftenest on the heels of a bout of hard work.

So hunt a better answer for automation than the 20-hour work week, say I—and to heck with basket-weaving!

Gas Dealers Hold Line In 2-Cent Fight

Private brand gasoline retailers remained determined today to achieve a two-cent spread under brand-name gasoline, but station operators working on consignment deals were mainly only one cent higher.

Private brand prices posted today were the same as Friday—37 cents. Most Imperial, Home, Shell, BA, Texaco and Standard stations had the 38 cents sign up this morning.

One service station, Morgan and Tucker, which is a Shell dealer but so far refused to go on consignment, is selling at tank-wagon cost—36.3 cents.

"We're just having a ball, getting to see a lot of new faces, while we figure the next move," said manager Al Morgan today.

In Vancouver, a prominent oil company executive said Friday it looks to him as if Social Credit MLA Cyril Sheldford wants the oil industry in B.C. to break the law.

That's the way president Ralph D. Baker of the Standard Oil Company of B.C. interprets Mr. Sheldford's recent speech in the legislature.

The member for Omineca said oil companies should be confined to wholesale business only, and that gasoline prices should be equalized throughout the province.

Mr. Baker replied in a letter to a Vancouver paper that oil company pricing based on uniform action amounts to price fixing.

The newspaper quoted Mr. Baker's letter Friday as saying in part:

"This suggests, seems in fact, to propose that the oil companies join in a criminally unlawful concert of action..."

A Shell Oil proposal to cut dealers' commissions, which was put to the operators on consignment Friday noon, was withdrawn later in the afternoon after furious protests from the operators.

It had been suggested that a commission would be cut by a quarter of a cent for each retail cut of one cent a gallon, down to a base commission of 5½ cents.

"With many of the business canvassers still to turn in their figures, and other returns to come in from all parts of the province, we are optimistic that the goal of $200,000 can be reached this year," said a B.C. Heart Foundation spokesman.

Victorians who wish to contribute can send their donations to 617 Fort Street or to B.C. Heart Fund headquarters at 1956 West Broadway, Vancouver 9, B.C.

'Y' STARTING NEW PHYSICAL FITNESS PROGRAM

'50-Mile Hike Like Gulpng Bottle of Pills'

By RON SUDLOW

Why walk 50 miles in 20 hours when you can run 100 miles over a longer period of time?

This is the principle of a new physical fitness program at the YMCA.

Art Burgess, physical director at the YMCA, thinks it is silly to attempt 50-mile hikes to prove a person is physically fit.

"It's like a doctor giving a patient a bottle of pills and instructing him to take three a day. But the person reasons if he gulps down the whole bottle he'll feel even better."

Some of the tests require one mile per day.

The new program, outlined in the booklet "Canadian Sport and Physical Fitness Standards for Men, Women and Youth" is designed to make a person physically fit through walking, running, swimming, gymnastics, weight training and conditioning exercises which develop stamina, speed and strength.

Part of our mission is to try and acquaint people with physical fitness, he said.

This is where the Y's new program comes in.

It is based on the fact that the body is the only machine that works better the more it is used; rather than walk 50 miles in 20 hours, run 100 miles with a minimum of ming pool, but the average person can still meet the qualifications for superior fitness without going near the YMCA or a health studio. All that is needed is a pair of running shoes and determination.

"We don't want to make this a 'Y' activity. This is not the way to keep the Canadian-community fit. We want to get out to the average man," Mr. Burgess said.

The Y's plans to make this booklet available, at no cost, to anyone interested in the program and physical fitness.

Some of the tests require gym equipment or a swimming pool to examine and certify the accomplishments of anyone participating in the program.

When a person completes the training program, the YMCA will issue a card stating the level of fitness achieved.

The Y's plans to kick off its new program March 17 with a nine-mile walk for men, women and children which, according to the standards of the program, must be completed within two hours and 20 minutes.

Further information can be obtained by phoning Mr. Burgess at EV 3-8777.

Within the next two weeks, the YMCA plans to solicit athletic coaches, gym teachers and school physical education instructors in Greater

Every step of the way

YOUR RED CROSS SERVES YOU

This slogan of service is being used in the present Red Cross drive in Canada for $6,354,262. British Columbia's quota is $690,600. Of this, Victoria is being asked to provide $79,000.

Now It's Your Turn

March is Red Cross month. The month in which the people of Canada are given an opportunity to assist and say "thank you" with their donations to the work of this humane group that is celebrating a century of service in 1963. Various services available through the Red Cross, some of which are brought to life on this page today, include blood-transfusion services, disaster services, water safety, veterans' services, volunteer women's work, sick room, loan cupboard, outpost hospitals, missing persons information bureau, international aid in times of earthquakes, floods or strife and home nursing classes.

Thirty-four blood donor clinics were held by the Red Cross in the Greater Victoria area in 1962 with an attendance of 7,484. Here, CPO Frank Paulsen, RCN, stationed in HMCS Ottawa, gives his 40th pint of blood to assist the sick.

Junior Red Cross groups are maintained in elementary and secondary schools where young people are trained in "friendship, goodwill and to give assistance to needy children at home and abroad." In several schools products are actually made for distribution to needy persons. Here, members of the inter-high council assemble kit bags for shipment overseas. They are from the left: Cliff Watt, Victoria High, Grade 12; Herma Schroeder, Elizabeth Fisher School, Grade 9; Heather Crowell, Colquitz School, Grade 7, and Karen Gung, S. J. Willis Junior High, Grade 9. (Chapman Photography.)

The Lodge, situated in the grounds at Veterans' Hospital, is maintained by the local branch of the Red Cross for patients in the hospital and their friends. There is a lounge and canteen and overnight accommodation for relatives of hospital patients is available. Here volunteer lodge worker Mrs. A. G. Woodhouse, right, serves food in the canteen while a patient, Mr. F. Murphy and Mrs. Murphy pay the cashier, Mrs. L. Whyte. The lodge will hold its once-a-year "Open House" for the public on Saturday and Sunday, March 9 and 10. (Chapman Photography.)

Arts and crafts are taught to bed patients and in a crafts room at Veterans' Hospital. Finished products are sold to assist the patients. Here, Miss A. Gurton, left, and Miss M. Murray, supervise work of Mr. C. Verhey, Mr. J. Badcock and Mr. Henry Laval, left to right.

Uniformed volunteers assist in Red Cross activities as required throughout the year. Here Mrs. J. Sutherland-Brown, at left, and Miss Gladys Irving, distribute smokes, candy, magazines and tobacco to W. H. A. Preece and many other bedridden patients in Veterans' Hospital. (Chapman Photography.)

Controversy Arouses Englishmen to Do Battle for Right to Call Muffins Their Own

By MARGE GILROY

Poor old Penny Saver! (The one you find on this page every day, I mean.)

She really does strive to please her readers. But ever since the day she dared in her column to give the English muffin an American birthright, she has been having her troubles. "Blimey!" she keeps moaning, "I've done it, I have! I've brought the American revolution back to life."

Englishmen are never going to forgive me for handing credit to the Americans for inventing the muffin."

First Penny received letters and phone calls from every Welshman this side of the Pockies. They weren't sure about the English muffin being English but they did say that it certainly was a common item in Wales.

One correspondent, from Duncan, wrote to say she was "rushing to the defense of the BRITISH muffin." She didn't know "if they were popular in England but they certainly were in Wales." As a schoolgirl she had "always had a muffin piping hot for breakfast and on Sunday morning they were served with boiled eggs."

The recipe was included in her letter. She claims it is exactly the same as that used for crumpets—difference being in the cooking.

Another writer was horrified to hear that Penny had found English people who had never heard of an English muffin. There certainly was such a thing, she said, the only difference between crumpet and muffin was the size—the muffin being twice as thick.

Still other readers took Penny to task for giving credit of the muffin to the Americans.

The muffin it was said, over and over again, was like the crumpet, only thicker.

One woman wrote: "I can recall, as a youngster in London, the vendor coming around with a tray covered with green baize on his head. His cry was 'muffins and crumpets'. That's how the good housewives bought them."

In the past week, Penny has received almost more phone calls than letters . . . and that means phone calls.

They came from Lancashire men and women and from Yorkshire men and women, all claiming the English muffin was English and that there was no doubt it originated in the north.

Balancing these calls was a letter from a south-of-England woman saying the muffin WAS English, alright, and that it was certainly popular in the south.

—North or south, it was always Mrs. Beeton's Cookery Book (new enlarged edition) published in 1891.

In the past week, Penny has received almost more phone calls than letters . . . and that means phone calls.

Dear Mrs. Beeton! She must have a great cook, judging from the high esteem with which she is still regarded.

Final letter to arrive was from a woman born in the south of England in 1875. She remembers having muffins for tea, kept hot in a covered plate called a "muffin dish."

This time the letter included a photostat copy of a page from Mrs. Beeton's Cookery Book (new enlarged edition) published in 1891.

There they were on Page 222, muffins and crumpets.

Writer of this letter thought Penny's recipe, printed in the column that started all this controversy, sounded more appetizing. But, for those who are left with the idea that Penny has passed on some thing phony, I will reproduce

Mrs. Beeton's recipe here—and hope for the best:

Ingredients—One quart of milk, 1½ oz. of German yeast, salt and flour.

Mode—Warm milk, add to it the yeast and salt, and mix well together. Put in a pan and add enough flour to make a soft dough, cover with a cloth and put in a warm place to rise.

When light and nicely risen, divide the dough into pieces and round them to a proper shape; place them in a layer of flour two inches thick, on a wooden tray and let them rise again. Then put them on a hot plate or stove and bake until slightly browned, turning them when they are done on one side.

Time, from 20 minutes to half an hour to bake them. Average cost, to buy, 1d. each.

Seasonable in winter.

So, there it is! The proof of the pudding or rather the proof that the muffin had an English birthright after all.

Penny sends her apologies to all those she may have offended.

Irony of it all is that she has never heard again from the American who started the muffin revolution.

No doubt she is at home making Penny's muffins—unconcerned about their birthright.

Here for Wedding

Mrs. A. Kerridge and Mrs. L. Woods are here from Chilliwack to attend the wedding of Miss Barbara Kerridge and Mr. Clifford Campbell. Also from out-of-town are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. R. Campbell, all of Vancouver.

Barbara Kerridge Married Today

An exquisite floor-length gown of silk brocade was choice of Barbara Jean Kerridge when she exchanged wedding vows with Clifford Gerald Campbell in St. John's Anglican Church this afternoon. The basque bodice featured a scoop neckline and lily point sleeves and a bow was back interest at waistline of the belled skirt that extended to a chapel train. A dainty pillbox headpiece held the puffed shoulder-length veil. Pink roses and white freesia were in the bouquet.

Pink plum blossoms and pink carnations decorated the church for the ceremony that united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Kerridge, 1180 Esquimalt Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Campbell, 5941 Old East Saanich Road. Pews were marked with David Kerridge and Edward Campbell, brothers of the principals.

Lt.-Cmdr. D. E. Rigg, RCN, proposed the toast to the bride at a reception held at the Tally-Ho Travelodge. Wedding cake which centred the head table was, made by the bride's mother and decorated by the mother of the groom. The cake was cut with the sword of the bride's father.

The bride's sister, Miss Cecilia Kerridge, was maid of honor in a pale pink embroidered organza dress with matching pillbox headpiece that had accents of pearls. She carried bouquet of white roses.

Two-year-old Helen Robinson made a charming flower girl in a white nylon frock trimmed with lace. Tiny pink carnations and roses were in her hair and pink roses were in the posy she carried.

STRACHAN MAKES PLEA FOR MIDNIGHT BOAT

The return of the midnight boat was urged Friday by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

He made the plea in the legislature during debate of the ferry boss's estimates.

Premier Bennett is chairman of the government's Toll Authority.

Mr. Strachan told him: "Under the old schedule it was possible to catch the midnight boat to the Island."

It was particularly useful to sports teams, he said, who played in Vancouver.

The present schedule, with the last boat from Horsehoe Bay at 10 p.m., made it impossible for teams to use the ferries.

The new ferry schedule (under government ownership) was spoiling the enjoyment of sports.

Mr. Bennett didn't give him any answer.

'NATIONAL EXPANSION POLICY'

Aid for 'Have-Not' Areas Pledged by Liberal Chief

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson Friday night pledged to launch a national policy for expansion, aimed largely at have-not areas, if elected April 8 with a majority.

Speaking at a rally in this steel-making centre, the Liberal leader said nothing short of a national policy for the whole Atlantic region will begin to give the answers to the economic problems of the Atlantic provinces.

A national policy for expansion could not work for all Canada if some parts of the country are economically sick. Therefore, the Liberal programs for a strong and vigorous economy depend largely on what is done for the have-not areas.

Mr. Pearson also promised that a Liberal government would call a federal-provincial fisheries conference to work out a program for fisheries development.

Development would be found on the principle that federal action for fisheries should parallel action taken for agriculture.

He said that since Canada could not get a 12-mile limit for exclusive fishing jurisdiction by international agreement, a Liberal government would declare such a limit by national action.

TO ENCOURAGE STUDENTS

To help in the early stages of higher education, the Liberals would extend family allowances beyond age 16 for boys and girls that in an emergency it will obtain the nuclear warheads for existing weapons systems.

The Liberal leader, speaking in the Cape Breton South riding held in the last parliament by the New Democrats, said he could respect the NDP's nuclear arms position if the NDP was prepared to follow through with it.

The NDP position, he said, is that Canada should have nothing to do with NATO if NATO becomes a nuclear power. But Scotia, said the government is being "nonsensical" in saying that a national policy for expansion could not work for all Canada if some parts of the country are economically sick.

Therefore, the Liberal programs for a strong and vigorous economy depend largely on what is done for the have-not areas.

HEROISM HAILED

Stranded Fisherman Scales Bare Cliff

SEAL COVE, N.B. (CP)—"I don't know how he did it. I guess it was faith in God that took him up."

That was how a 36-year-old Maine fisherman described his brother's climb up a bald 300-foot cliff on the southern tip of Grand Manan Island in the Bay of Fundy.

The climb, which led to the rescue of Floyd Jones of Haycox Harbor, Me., climaxed a night of determination and heroism for Floyd and his brother William, 42.

Both suffered frostbite and amazed hospital officials with their fast recovery. They hoped to leave for home today, 45 miles across the Grand Manan channel.

CUT 20c A GALLON

Gasoline Prices Slashed by Volkswagen

PROXIMATELY double these figures with an average of 35 to 40 miles per gallon.

Therefore it works out that Volkswagen drivers obtain their fuel at the 20 cent figure in comparison to most car owners. As a final clincher to this theory Mr. Passmore adds the fact that for a VW owner, the price reduction is permanent and will remain long after the present gas price situation is settled; in fact, the VW owner will effect these savings and more, as long as he owns a Volkswagen.

Mr. Passmore points out that Volkswagen owners are paying approximately 20c per gallon for gasoline. To support his interesting contention, the VW dealer asserts that domestic car owners are averaging 15 to 20 miles per gallon in normal driving, whereas Volkswagen owners obtain ap-

Full marks to our NDP and Liberal dissidents for a gallant and stubborn try. The hardest fight is the foredoomed one, and it was plain from the start that the allegations of highways department misconduct tabled by the Opposition this week were unlikely to be sifted at an open hearing.

Our minority blocs, solid in demanding a royal commission under a Supreme Court judge, could hope to get their way only by a free vote which might stampede a few broncho members out of the government corral.

This didn't happen. Instead, when the division buzzer summoned the House to a standing ballot on Mr. Strachan's amendment to Attorney-General Bonner's motion, the Socred ranks were solid from Richter to Campbell, Black to Skillings.

So the amendment was lost, the Bonner motion carried, and the charges of squalor in a government department will be weighed by a committee of the legislature in which government holds an 85-majority.

"We shall probably begin finding the answers on Monday," said Mr. Bonner.

Why . . . ?

I could quote you reams of pro and con argument delivered in masterly fashion through a long Friday afternoon. Whatever these lawmakers may or may not be, even the least is a veteran public speaker.

But I give you a single, bitter question, slammed across the floor by NDP Tony Gargrave:

"Why are you scared of a judge?"

And that, it seems to me, is the question which is going to linger while the public accounts committee enquires into a file of allegations to which both NDPs and Liberals have said they'll add further affidavits.

There are men in our Social Credit government whom I like and admire. But today, reviewing arguments which were mere clever sophistry, I think this government has badly compromised itself by its insistence on keeping the investigation under the family roof.

Thorough Job

Only a speedy, thorough and impartial enquiry will clear the record; which means that the committee must complete its deliberations and return its findings before the current session prorogues.

From its very nature, trial by committee must be suspect as at Russian election. Intemperate terms for this procedure have already been a fact. "Kangaroo court" was one which drew government ire on Friday; "Whitewash" another.

If it is not to deserve them, the public accounts committee must not depart by a hair's breadth, from Mr. Bonner's promised impartiality.

It seems to me, too, that

JIGS AND JULEPS BEGINS MONDAY

While Times readers will be having a heavy fare of political discussion in the next few weeks, they will find some comic relief in a 10-part serial beginning Monday. It is the reproduction in full of the book O Ye Jigs & Juleps, which has been a best seller for six months. The essays which make it up were written 60 years ago by a 10-year-old girl, Virginia Cary Hudson, containing her naive concepts of such things as school, the sacraments, everlasting life, spring, and other topics.

Watch for the first essay in Monday's paper.

'Good Samaritans' Fixed Tickets

BELLMAWR, N.J. (UPI) — A police chief indicted for ticket fixing said today some $2,000 bilked from unsuspecting motorists was used "to better our police department and to help destitute families."

Chief Edward J. Garrity of Bellmawr, with 15 years service on the force, 11 of them as chief, said, "none of my men or myself kept any of the money we took. It all went for police equipment or to help people out."

A special grand jury Thursday charged Garrity with 14 counts of changing official records and of conspiracy to obstruct and prevent due administration of state motor vehicle laws.

Three of his eight men and Bellmawr violations clerk Helen B. Naglee also were indicted.

The indictments charged the men issued motorists tickets for serious offences, collected the fines, lowered the charges and pocketed the difference in fines called for by the true charges.

It was just something that happened and then kept going and going," Garrity said. "All the money that was taken was turned back

wasn't put where it was intended in the first place. That's the problem."

He said the ticket fixing had been going on "since about 1959 or so."

In the time, he said, the Bellmawr police department bought a police fingerprinting camera, a lie detector built and equipped a dark room and bought an oxygen

resuscitator and a 10-ton hydraulic jack "for getting people out of cars in accidents."

Asked if he had approached the borough, which has 11,835 residents, for added funds, Garrity said: "No I can't say the borough is at fault. They can only supply so much money to us, tax-wise with the amount of people we have."

He said that on more than one occasion the ill-gotten money was used, to aid needy families.

Imperial Oil Donates $15,000 To YM-YWCA Building Campaign

A gift of $15,000 by Imperial Oil Ltd. to the Victoria YM-YWCA building campaign was announced in Toronto Friday.

The gift was confirmed to a Victoria canvassing team in Toronto by Imperial Oil's vice-president Trevor Moore who said "we have studied this project and believe it is worthy of support."

Campaign chairman Hugh Stephen said "we were delighted with the cordial reception accorded us by Mr. Moore and the Imperial Oil Company."

"They had a good understanding of our campaign and set an example which we hope other firms may emulate."

The Victoria canvassing team of Mr. Stephen, Stuart Keate and Donald J. Lawson had completed more than 20 calls on national corporations by Friday and were reported "greatly encouraged" by their reception. Among those visited were former Victorians Allen Lambert, John Proctor and E. T. Simmon.

From Toronto, the canvassing team moves on next week to Montreal and Winnipeg for calls on banks, railroad companies, large industries, and national foundations.

"Everywhere we go, we find a wide degree of support for the Y," Mr. Stephen said. "Many of the biggest businessmen in Canada today got their start in the Y and this has resulted in a genuine bond of sympathy with our project."

Arthur Mayse

A while ago I fell into discussion with a good, solid socialist-British Labor variety—about the short work-week which he feels is inevitable, now that the machines are doing most of our labor and half our thinking.

How I wanted to know, are we going handle all that leisure time?

No problem there, said my friend: Help the wife. Do all those neglected fix-it chores around the place. Go bowling, go fishing.

Fine! But a man may not want to go fishing, that often. His wife mightn't appreciate him, underfoot during her own non-union workday, and we're not all eager or handy home artisans. What about that residue of unexpected leisure?

"It'll give him a chance to develop some culture," was the answer. "You know . . . books, music, basket-weaving. Stuff like that."

Well, even though I haven't woven a basket since Grade Three, I have no quarrel with culture, although I'd appreciate a definition of this slippery intangible.

But as a man who once suffered from over-much leisure, let me assure you that the average Joe with time on his hands isn't going to occupy it with books, music, household chores, sports, good works for charity, or even basket-weaving.

What he's going to do with a considerable proportion of his free hours is hang around the house, harry the children, brood himself neutrally, and put on weight. Then, when the burden of leisure becomes insupportable, he'll yield to a primal instinct and hunt for work for hands and brain. I mean, pay-work, with a regular cheque to keep him reassured that it's honest-to-goodness homely, necessary labor.

The upshot of the much-discussed 20-hour work week—and I suggest any union officer reading this take note—will be the darnedest wave of moonlighting this country has ever seen.

ARCHER INVITES OPINIONS

Anyone with anything to say to George Archer, the man who is conducting an investigation into all aspects of Victoria's policing should step right up and say it.

That was the word today from Mr. Archer himself.

He said it does not appear to be generally known that any citizen or group may approach him in connection with his probe of police affairs.

The former RCMP superintendent, who reorganized the Vancouver police force after it was rocked by scandal, said he will welcome any communications about his work.

Mr. Archer said that representations may be made to him either in person or in writing. He can be contacted either by writing to Room 310, B.C. Hydro Building, 780 Blanshard Street, or by telephoning 3-4141, Local 210 or 209.

Mr. Archer said he will arrange an appointment for anyone who wants to see him.

He said he already has received many communications.

VMD Low On Bids For Ferries

Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. is low bidder on two more B.C. Toll Authority ferries and is almost certain to be awarded the contract.

Tenders were submitted by VMD, Yarrows Ltd. and Yarrows' parent company, Burndry Dry Dock Ltd., North Vancouver.

ATRIAL START? The VMD bid totalled $6,993,323.30, with Mirrlees engines installed. If the contract is awarded, the plant will order steel immediately and begin construction in April.

The two ferries would be built side by side, as were the Queen of Saanich and Queen of Esquimalt.

At its peak, the work would employ about 450 men.

Monday Meetings

An inquest will be held in McCall's funeral home, 1400 Vancouver Street, Wednesday at 10 a.m., into the deaths of William Donald, 27, of 906 Gordon; Donald E. Tyrrell, 21, of 907 Forshaw and Neil Campbell, Macdonald, 22, of 235 Fernwood, who died in a two-car crash at Goldstream and Island Highway Dec. 15.

One survivor of the accident was Cheryl McBratney, 18, of 819 Kindersley, who was discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital three weeks ago.

Old Age Pensioners Organization No. 5 will meet in the Naval Veterans' Hall Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

TEMPORARY REGISTRAR APPOINTED

A special administrative assistant to Dr. John Barfoot Macdonald, president of UBC, will take over the temporary position as registrar at Victoria College in July, it was announced today.

But college principal Dr. Harry Hickman said the appointment does not mean a reorganization of college administration "at the present time."

Ronald R. Jeffeys will take over the temporary position of college registrar from Dorothy Cruickshank, who is taking a year's leave of absence.

Mr. Jeffeys, who has been in the department of romance studies at UBC, also will stay on to teach French at the college.

He holds an M.A. degree from Cambridge University. The appointment takes place July 1.

Victoria Jaycees are sponsoring a series of talks over radio station CFAX today in support of Mental Health Day—the campaign for mental health education sponsored by the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce as its 1963-64 project.

The day-long talks are being sponsored by 35 local merchants and 30 local Jaycees are taking part. They were launched at 8 a.m. by Mayor R. D. Wilson.

An additional performance of "The Merry Widow" by Duncan Musical Club will be given Monday at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of Cowichan Senior Secondary School, Dun-ford, with a display of 60 cultivated plants, won first prize at a recent horticultural show held at the Coachman's Inn by the Icebreakers Club of Victoria.

Judges in the contest were: Prof. L. Clark of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary, Hilda Beestall, Times garden columnist; Mrs. Ena McCabe, president of the Victoria Horticultural Society, and Freeman King of the Victoria Natural History Society.

A 32-year-old workman who fell 21 feet to the concrete floor at Mayfair Shopping Centre Friday afternoon is reported to be in "good" condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Oscar Gomez, 428 Superior, was helping to erect a scaffold when he slipped and fell. He injured his arm, ribs and suffered shock.

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will have two speakers addressing different organizations at 8 p.m. Monday evening on the subject of mental health.

Joseph Kampman will talk to Royal Oak Elementary PTA at a meeting in the school and Allan Wilson, past president of Victoria Jaycees, will speak at Victoria College Gordon Head Campus to the Women's Faculty Club.

Organizations wishing a member from Victoria Jaycees to speak on mental health are asked to call the Canadian Mental Health Centre at EV 5-7811.

The group played Thursday, Friday and Saturday to capacity crowds, and the additional performance is expected to fill the auditorium.

It is being sponsored by the Lessons in Living Group.

"Roots of Peace," a newly-filmed documentary depicting the struggle for survival in underprivileged countries, will be shown in St. John's Hall, Balfour Street, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

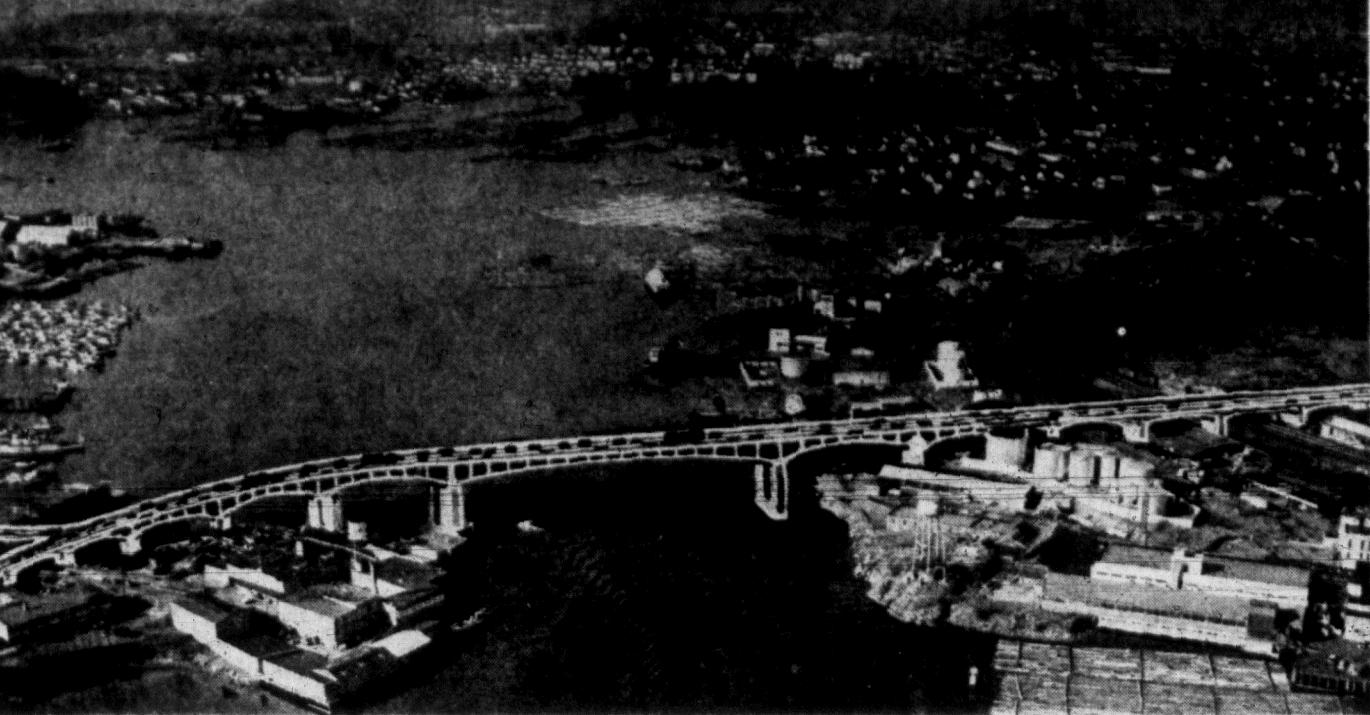

It is being sponsored by the Lessons in Living Group.

Why walk 50 miles in 20 hours when you can run 100 miles over a longer period of time?

This is the principle of a new physical fitness program at the YMCA.

Art Burgess, physical director at the YMCA, thinks it is silly to attempt a 50-mile hike to prove a person is physically fit.

"It's like a doctor giving a patient a bottle of pills and instructing him to take three a day. But the person reasons if he gulps down the whole bottle he'll feel even better."

HIGH ARCH CANTILEVER BRIDGE over the mouth of the Inner Harbor would look like this artist's conception if it is built. City traffic committee recently instructed city engineering department to carry out feasibility and cost study of the proposal for a bridge between Sidney Roofing and Bapeo Paint areas, primarily to take heavy lumber truck and other commercial traffic away from downtown area. Traffic chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney contends the provincial government could build it as a toll bridge. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett from V.I. Helicopter Ltd. plane).

Gas Dealers Hold Line In 2-Cent Fight

Private brand gasoline retailers remained determined today to achieve a two-cent spread under brand-name gasolines, but station operators working on consignment deals were mainly only one cent higher.

Private brand prices posted today were the same as Friday—37.9 cents. Most Imperial, Home, Shell, BA, Texaco and Standard stations had the 38.9 sign up this morning.

One service station, Morgan and Tucker, which is Shell dealer but so far refused to go on consignment, is selling at tank-wagon cost—36.3 cents.

"We're just having a ball, getting to see a lot of new faces, while we figure the next move," said manager Al Morgan today.

NOT MAKING MONEY

"We're not making any money, but we're pumping a lot of gas," he said. The station sold 2,400 gallons Friday—almost equivalent to a normal week.

In Vancouver, a prominent oil company executive said Friday it looks as though if Social Credit MLA Cyril Sheldor wants the oil industry in B.C. to break the law.

That's the way president Ralph D. Baker of the Standard Oil Company of B.C. interprets Mr. Sheldor's recent speech in the legislature.

Mr. Baker replied in a letter to the Vancouver Sun that oil company pricing based on uniform action amounts to price fixing.

The newspaper quoted Mr. Baker's letter Friday as saying in part:

"This suggests, seems, in fact, to propose that the oil companies join in a criminally unlawful concert of action . . ."

B.C. Heart Fund Campaign Past Halfway Point

The B.C. Heart Fund campaign is past the halfway mark in its provincial objective of $220,000, it was learned today from Vancouver headquarters.

Mr. Baker replied in a letter to the Vancouver Sun that oil company pricing based on uniform action amounts to price fixing.

Pre-Schoolers Learn Discipline

Need for reasonable and consistent rules and regulations for the pre-school child was emphasized by a panel on the pre-school child at recent meeting of the Vancouver Island Play Group Association.

Active play is not only beneficial for muscle development, panel stressed, it also teaches the child self-discipline; self-control and respect for others. Benefits of creative play, and the value of encouragement and praise were other points discussed.

President Mrs. Esme Knighton chaired the discussion, and panelists were Mrs. M.

FINAL BULLETINS

'Trick Warhead' Tested By U.S.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A revolutionary missile warhead designed to confuse enemy defensive measures was hurled more than 5,000 miles by an Atlas rocket Friday, it was announced today.

Scheduled for testing in the program are nose cones capable of manoeuvring in space to avoid counter-measures or to change targets; new protective materials to better withstand re-entry heat; and warhead decoys to baffle defence radars.

Warship Moves Up In 'Lobster War'

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Another French warship arrived off the north Brazilian coast today to protect six French lobster boats which Brazil has warned to leave the area.

A Brazilian navy spokesman said neither the new warship nor the one already in the area has "made hostile actions."

Progress Reported In Strike Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for striking printers and eight publishers went into weekend session today in a new try to settle the city's newspaper strike, now in its 85th day.

Some progress was reported. Bertram A. Powers, president of striking Local No. 6 of the International Typographical Union AFL-CIO, said eight hours of negotiations Friday were devoted entirely to automation. (See earlier, Page 32)

HIGHWAYS DEPT.

Graft' Probe Will Open Wed.

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

A legislative committee will start investigating charges of graft in the highways department on Wednesday.

The Opposition Friday promised more ammunition for the probe.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said he had received new affidavits concerning the case.

Tony Gargrave (NDP-Mackenzie) said that more than one highway project is involved.

BRIGHT SUN PROMISED FOR WEEKEND

A bright sunny weekend is in store for Victorians.

The latest word came from weatherman Bill Mackie at press time today.

He cancelled out an earlier prediction of cloudy weather with occasional showers.

It now appears that temperatures may rise as high as 48 degrees today and Sunday. Winds should be light and no rain is expected.

But the absence of cloud will send the overnight temperature down to about 30 degrees in areas away from the sea. This will cause light frost in some districts.

Outlook for next week: warming trend to continue.

27 Aboard Lost Plane

MANILA (AP) — A Philippine Air Lines plane with 27 persons on board disappeared over Mindanao Island today.

A constabulary detachment on Mindanao reported it had sighted wreckage of a plane on the island's rugged interior, but officials here said they could not confirm it was the same plane.

There are men in our Social Credit government whom I like and admire. But today, reviewing arguments which were mere clever sophistry, I think this government has badly compromised itself by its insistence on keeping the investigation under the family court.

Only a speedy, thorough and impartial enquiry will clear the record; which means that the committee must complete its deliberations and return its findings before the current session prorogues.

From its very nature, trial by committee must be suspect as a Russian election.

Intemperate terms for this procedure have already been aired. "Kangaroo court" was one which drew government ire on Friday; "Whitewash" another.

If it is not to deserve them, the public accounts committee must not depart by a hair's breadth from Mr. Bonner's promised impartiality.

It seems to me, too, that

JIGS AND JULEPS BEGINS MONDAY

While Times readers will be having a heavy fare of political discussion in the next few weeks, they will find some comic relief in a 10-part serial beginning Monday.

It is the reproduction in full of the book O-Ye Jigs & Juleps, which has been a best seller for six months. The essays which make it up were written 60 years ago by a 10-year-old girl, Virginia Cary Hudson, containing her naive concepts of such things as school, the sacraments, everlasting life, spring, and other topics.

Watch for the first essay in Monday's paper.

50-MILE HIKE DO IT IN 14:40

Two Teenagers Whip Malahat

Mount Douglas High School students Ken and Jim Tschirriter, 16 and 15, and Bob Palmer, 16, who started walking to Victoria from north of Duncan at 10:14 p.m. Friday, arrived outside the Times office at 2:22 this afternoon.

They ended their 16 hour, eight minute trek in good condition but with blistered feet—the second group to complete the 50-mile walk in under 20 hours.

By MONTE ROBERTS

"Old Man Malahat" was conquered today by a pair of View Royal 16-year-olds who took U.S. President John F. Kennedy's "50-20" fitness yardstick and cut it down to size.

George Wilmhurst, 298 Bessborough, and Gary Moseley, 533 View Royal, stepped off 50 tough miles, from north of Duncan over the Malahat hump to the Times office, in exactly 14 hours, 40 minutes.

They started out at 8:45 p.m. Friday, walked steadily through the night and morning, finishing the march at 11:25 a.m., when they offed shoes and compared blisters.

They were one of three groups, all teenagers, who tackled the 50-mile challenge overnight.

Gary and George were the first to complete the walk since Times staff members Marge Gilroy and Humphrey Davy called their attempt off Wednesday at the 31.5-mile mark.

Also trekking overnight were Ken and Jim Tschirriter, 16 and 15, and Bob Palmer, 16, who were at the Taitis Lake cutoff at noon today; and Dan Parker, 16, Terry Forsyth, 15, Len Philip, 15, and Hans Hansen, 15, about 15 miles behind the Tschirriter group.

Two young hikers were compelled to drop out: Bob Campbell from the View Royal team, and Ken Todd from the Tschirriter walkers.

George Wilmhurst and Gary Moseley took up the "50-20" (50 miles in 20 hours or less) challenge on impulse after reading of the failure of the Times' attempt, as well as one by a group from CHEK television.

"We just asked our parents if we could try, and started out," said Gary. "It was mostly George's idea."

"Just wanted to see if we could do it," George said.

They kept up a steady, almost unvarying pace, uphill and down, at between three and four miles an hour.

REPORTERS LEARN HOW

Footsore but triumphant, two casual teenagers strolled into Victoria at 11:25 a.m. today, with 50 miles of up-and-down Malahat behind them. They were welcomed and congratulated outside the Times office by staff members Marge Gilroy, left, and Humphrey Davy, centre, who started the "50-20" attempts locally. That's Gary Moseley plus blisters next to Marge, George Wilmhurst and sore legs on the right.

Mars-Gazing 'Scope Back

PULASKI, Tenn. (UPI) — Giant tandem balloons, which carried a 36-inch telescope on a Mars-gazing mission 15 miles above earth today when his station wagon struck a curb, bounced back onto the road and travelled 80 feet before smashing into a pole. Police said he apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

Among other things, scientists hoped the instrument package would record data that will help determine whether life, as we know it, exists on the "red planet."

Sheriff's officers said a team of scientists and guards from Huntsville, Ala., are en route to the landing site.

HOW TO FINANCE MODEL POLICE DEPARTMENT

'Good Samaritans' Fixed Tickets

BELLMAWR, N.J. (UPI) — A police chief indicted for ticket fixing said today some $2,000 bilked from unsuspecting motorists was used "to better off police department and to help destitute families."

Chief Edward J. Garrity of Bellmawr, with 15 years service on the force, 11 of them as chief, said, "none of my men or myself kept any of the money we took. It all went for police equipment or to help people out."

A special grand jury Thursday charged Garrity with 14 counts of changing official records and of conspiracy to obstruct and prevent due administration of state motor vehicle laws. Three of his eight men and Bellmawr violations clerk Helen B. Naglee also were indicted.

He said the ticket fixing had been going on "since about 1959 or so."

In that time, he said, the Bellmawr police department bought a police fingerprinting camera, a lie detector, built and equipped a darkroom and bought an oxygen resuscitator and a 10-ton hydraulic jack "for getting people out of cars in accidents."

The indictments charged the men issued motorists tickets for serious offences, collected the fines, lowered the charges and pocketed the difference in fines called for by the true charges.

'Flu Epidemic

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Influenza here has closed two hospitals to visitors and hit schools, businesses and the Camp Borden army camp.

Doctors said the flu is spreading, but gave no estimate of the number of persons infected.

Canadian Ousted

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Canadian identified as John Norton Westwood of Montreal has been expelled from Russia for illegally taking photographs of trains, the weekly newspaper Nedelya said today.

Asked if he had approached the borough, which has 11,835 residents, for added funds, Garrity said: "No I can't say the borough is at fault. They can only support us with the amount of people we have."

He said that on more than one occasion the ill-gotten money was used to aid needy families.

Garrity, who is 43 and has one child, runs a police department that has often been cited as a model other small towns could benefit by imitating.

Few small town police departments in the state are so well equipped.
